Johnson, 2018-07-25 The Institute for Research in Social Science at the University of North Carolina quickly achieved a national reputation for its contribution to pure research university teaching and public affairs. From its inception in 1924 it addressed touchy issues such as race relations, industrial inequities, and political inefficiency in the South. Despite worries about academic acceptance and funding, the institute's scholars produced research and publications that are landmarks in American social science. Modernization, Dislocation, and Aprismo Peter F. Klarén, 2014-11-06 Since its founding in 1930, the Peruvian Aprista party (APRA) has occupied a place of signal importance in the Peruvian political spectrum, and it is one of the most important political parties to appear in twentieth-century Latin America. Modernization, Dislocation, and Aprismo is the first major analysis of the social and political bases of the Aprista movement. Previous studies of APRA had been chiefly descriptive in nature and did not utilize modern social science approaches in analyzing the movement. Peter F. Klarén's major thesis is that APRA emerged in the 1930s as a direct political response to the far-reaching dislocative impact of modernization within the Peruvian sugar industry, a process that unfolded over a period of about four decades beginning in the 1890s and that substantially upset and transformed the traditional structure of society along the north coast. Jolted by the effects of modernization, elements of the old middle and lower sectors grew increasingly hostile to the existing order. Joined by the new proletariat that was beginning to voice its collective grievances by means of the unionization process this large alienated segment of northern society responded overwhelmingly in 1931 to the reformist appeal of the new Aprista party APRA many of whose leaders were products of this environment best expressed politically the general mood of alienation and rebellion of the area's discontented The eruption of the bloody and abortive Trujillo Revolution of 1932 is considered as the culmination of this process of social and economic dislocation In addition to presenting a major new interpretation of the origins of the Aprista movement this study places the Aprista party in the larger Latin American context by comparing APRA with other political movements in Mexico Brazil Argentina and Cuba that were responding to similar modernization phenomena This study is based not only on a large body of official party literature and local newspapers for the period but also on the newly discovered records of the Archivo de la Cmara de Comercio Agricultura e Industria of the Department of La Libertad for the years 1904-1932

Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru Ilana Johnson, David Pacifico, Robyn E. Cutright, 2021-02-01 Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru provides insight into the organization of complex urban and state level society in the region from a household perspective using observations from diverse North Coast households to generate new understandings of broader social processes in and beyond Andean prehistory Many volumes on this region are limited to one time period or civilization often the Moche While Ancient Households on the North Coast of Peru does examine the Moche it offers a wider thematic approach to a broader swath of prehistory Chapters on various time periods use a comparable scale of analysis to examine long term continuity and change and draw on a large corpus of prior research on states rulership and cosmology to offer new insight into the intersection of household community and state Contributors address social reproduction construction and reinforcement of gender identities and social hierarchy household permanence and resilience and expression of identity through cuisine This volume challenges common concepts of the household in archaeology by demonstrating the complexity and heterogeneity of household level dynamics as they intersect with institutions at broader social scales and takes a comparative perspective on daily life within one region of the Andes It will be of interest to both students and scholars of South American archaeology and household archaeology Contributors Brian R. Excavations at Cerro Azul, Peru Joyce Marcus, 2008-12-31

Recipient of the Jo Anne Stolaroff Cotsen Prize During the Late Intermediate period AD 1100-1470 the lower Canete Valley of Peru was controlled by the walled Kingdom of Huarco While inland sites produced irrigated crops the seaside community of Cerro Azul 130 km south of Lima produced fish for the rest of the kingdom Cerro Azul's noble families lived in large multipurpose compounds with tapia walls Their pottery had its strongest ties with valleys to the south such as Chincha and Ica During the course of excavation the University of Michigan Project excavated two tapia buildings in their entirety saving every sherd from every room walled work area feature and midden This remarkable volume is the final site report on the architecture and pottery of Late Intermediate Cerro Azul Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development Jr.

Wharton, 2017-07-28 One of the more perplexing problems of economic development is helping subsistence farmers break away from production simply for home consumption to become commercial farmers producing more and more for sale in the marketplace Although subsistence farms occupy 40 percent of the world's cultivated land and support half of mankind facts about them and programs to increase their output are scattered Subsistence Agriculture and Economic Development provides a unique overview of these difficulties and their significance to economic development It is the first book to subject subsistence agriculture to rigorous multi-disciplinary examination and to bring to light new theory and empirical evidence directed toward solving the problem This volume contains original chapters by forty leading social scientists and agricultural specialists who summarize contemporary theory fact and policy on the problems of developing agriculture from subsistence to a commercial basis Each contributor speaks from one or more of the relevant standpoints of economics sociology agronomy political science anthropology and social psychology There emerges a clear meaningful picture of the subsistence farmer and the problems involved in changing his attitudes methods of production and economic and social environment Broad in scope documented with pertinent case studies and far reaching in its guidelines for future research and policy this work should be read by all concerned with increasing food production and with economic development This is an area of special concern in the uses of food products as the basis for new energy resources an issue of increasing importance in the advancing use of ethanol as a fuel drawn from corn products Process and Pattern in Culture Robert Alan Manners, Julian Haynes Steward, This festschrift commemorates Julian H Steward The essays were contributed by former students colleagues and other anthropologists whose research or thinking has been influenced by him There was no preconceived attempt to give the volume any greater sense of unity or to impose upon the contributors any restrictions as to subject matter On the contrary each author was urged to write on an anthropological topic of greatest current interest to himself Many of the essays could be placed just as handily within a division other than the one to which they have arbitrarily been assigned in the book This kind of interchangeability may reflect in some measure the interrelatedness of Steward's contributions to anthropological theory The broad relevance of all the selections to Steward's work could reflect also the extent to which his interests continue to be reflected in the work of anthropologists influenced by him It could also reflect a parallelism of theoretical concerns within the profession that stem from the cultural ambience that produced Steward himself Parallelisms and convergence are aspects of the kind of cultural determinism which has claimed Steward's attention during the many years that he fought a fairly lonely battle to establish the respectability of evolutionism in anthropology Now that respectability has been achieved with an almost bandwagon fervor it is clear that Steward as much as anyone else in anthropology was responsible for the change The essays in this collection are at once a vindication of his patience an evidence of the high status he enjoys among anthropologists and a testimony to the impact of his unusual creativity on his colleagues
