Religions in Focus engages with the religious lives of members of some of the most significant religions today. It presents religions as contemporary ways of life that motivate and inspire people. Because religious people refer to sacred texts, honour the founders of their religions, learn from elders or mould their lives according to authoritative teachings, Religions in Focus explains the relationship between tradition and contemporary practice. It offers an introduction to religions that is rooted in the best scholarship of the Study of Religions and provides a secure foundation for further study. A team of Religious Studies scholars from many countries, all skilled communicators about the contemporary religions with which they are thoroughly familiar, introduce what it means to live as a religious person today. They insist that however old or young, these religions may be what is most interesting is the ways in which people express them today. This is not a history of religions but an insightful introduction to living religions. A guide to further study and a companion website will point to ways of building on knowledge gained in studying this book and applying skills developed in studying people's religious lives.

Focus Marina Stoyanova, 2008-04-10. This monograph focuses on an interesting typological property shared by four languages: the ungrammaticality of multiple WH questions in Irish, Berber, Italian and Somali. It contains a broad discussion of data related to the grammar of wh questions a comparative analysis of wh constructions in the four languages and a theoretical account for the observed phenomenon The analysis is based on the minimalist syntax theory as developed by Chomsky since 1995 It takes up the standard assumption that wh phrases are typical representatives of elements bearing new information in theoretical terms referred to as information focus Most importantly in the languages without multiple wh questions the information focus is licensed in a unique syntactic position The basic claim is that languages with unique focus are languages without multiple wh questions The analysis makes possible the classification of the languages without multiple wh questions into the crosslinguistic typology of wh constructions Furthermore this book is a contribution to the better understanding of information structure in natural languages especially of focusing phenomena
