

The background of the book cover is a painting of a vast, flat landscape under a dramatic sky. In the distance, a large, snow-covered mountain or ice formation rises against a sky transitioning from deep blue to a warm orange and yellow glow, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. Several ships are visible on the dark, calm water in the foreground. A large, multi-masted sailing ship is prominent on the right, while a smaller sailboat is on the left. The overall mood is serene yet majestic.

The Archive of Place William Turkel,2011-11-01 The Archive of Place weaves together a series of narratives about environmental history in a particular location British Columbia s Chilcotin Plateau In the mid 1990s the Chilcotin was at the centre of three territorial conflicts Opposing groups in their struggle to control the fate of the region and its resources invoked different understandings of its past and different types of evidence to justify their actions These controversies serve as case studies as William Turkel examines how people interpret material traces to reconstruct past events the conditions under which such interpretation takes place and the role that this interpretation plays in historical consciousness and social memory It is a wide ranging and original study that extends the span of conventional historical research The Place of

Adams,2019-07-01 The fall of 2018 saw an unprecedented number of women elected to Congress changing estimates of how long it might take to achieve equal representation For the first time women candidates used techniques honed by America s political families which have helped women enter politics since 1916 Drawing on extensive research and conversations with successful women politicians this book offers a history of the political opportunities provided through familial connections Family networks have a long history of enabling women to run for political office There is much for the latest group of candidates to emulate Power, Place, and State-Society Relations in Korea Jongwoo

Han,2013-11-26 No book has addressed the simultaneous phenomena of Korea s rapid economic development and its vibrant democratization in a single coherent paradigm The late developmentalist approach emphasizes the strong role of Korea s state and bureaucratic efficiency but does not explain how political development was concurrent with the economic miracles in the Han River modernization and dependence theories also fail to explain the aspect of simultaneity in this phenomenon What these three theories commonly miss is the unique relationship between state and society in Korea's long history of political culture In this book Jongwoo Han takes a holistic approach to understanding these phenomena by examining the state's role in the unprecedented economic development and society's capabilities to resist the state's centralized power Han re-articulates state-society relations through Onuf's social constructivist approach based on three rules of a political community: hegemony, hierarchy and heteronomy This book expands upon this effort to re-construct the state and society relations in two ways First it produces case studies of the capital city of Hanyang Joseon Dynasty from 1392 to 1910, Kyeongseong Japanese colonial control from 1910 to 1945 and Seoul 1945-current The capital city is analyzed as a container for the major ideologies and ways of thinking that have shaped three important political eras Second it adopts two indigenous thoughts, Neo-Confucianism and geomancy, as sources of the main political and cultural ideologies that shape Korea's state and society relations These sources have never been treated as units of political analysis This book finds that both Neo-Confucianism and geomancy over two periods of Hanyang and Kyeongseong are two main contributing factors of the emergence of the developmental state and vibrant democracy in Korea in the Seoul era

The Place of Science in Modern Civilisation and Other Essays Thorstein Veblen, 1919      Masterplots Frank Northern Magill, 1996      Planning, Development and Management of Sustainable Cities Tan Yigitcanlar, Md. (Liton) Kamruzzaman, 2019-04-30 The concept of sustainable urban development has been pushed to the forefront of policymaking and politics as the world wakes up to the impacts of climate change and the destructive effects of the Anthropocene Climate change has emerged to be one of the biggest challenges faced by our planet today, threatening both built and natural systems with long-term consequences which may be irreversible While there is a vast body of literature on sustainability and sustainable urban development, there is currently limited focus on how to cohesively bring together the vital issues of the planning, development and management of sustainable cities Moreover, it has been widely stated that current practices and lifestyles cannot continue if we are to leave a healthy living planet to not only the next generation but also to the generations beyond The current global school strikes for climate action, known as Fridays for Future, evidences this The book advocates the view that the focus needs to rest on ways in which our cities and industries can become green enough to avoid urban ecocide This book fills a gap in the literature by bringing together issues related to the planning, development and management of cities and focusing on a triple bottom line approach to sustainability

Place and Locality in Modern France Philip Whalen, Patrick Young, 2014-10-23 Place and Locality in Modern France analyses the significance and changing constructions of local place in modern France Drawing on the expertise of a range of scholars from around the world, this book provides a timely overview of the cross-disciplinary thinking that is currently taking place over a central issue in French history The contributed chapters address a range of subjects that include the politics of administrative reform decentralization regionalism and local advocacy the role of commerce in engendering narratives and experience of local place the importance of ethnic class gender and race distinctions in shaping local connection and identity the generation and transmission of knowledge about local place and culture through academia civic heritage and popular memory As a reconsideration of the local in French history Place and Locality in Modern France bridges the divide between micro and macro history for all those interested in ideas of locality and culture in modern French and European history      Penchant for Prejudice Linda Gayle Mills, 2025-10-01 A Penchant for Prejudice combines a detailed empirical study of the decision making practices of judges with a sophisticated theoretical argument which exposes contemporary myths about judging and suggests methods of incorporating the inevitable bias that is detected in this and other studies Based on a unique study of the decisions of Social Security judges the book challenges the meaning of judicial impartiality Linda G Mills finds that in practice bias is a consistent dimension of what is considered impartial decision making The results reveal that impartiality as the legal system now defines it is itself a form of bias and that a historically and contextually sensitive definition of bias one which takes account of the communities and cultures that come to be judged in the legal system must overcome the modern dualistic notion of impartiality as the exclusion of bias in order to respond to needs of the diversity of applicants and the judges who adjudicate their claims According to Mills the judicial bias she found reflected in her study seems not only to essentialize and stereotype applicants but also prevents judges from engaging vulnerable claimants in a way that the legal process positively demands A Penchant for Prejudice will be of interest to students and scholars of law judicial decisionmaking and discrimination Linda G Mills is Assistant Professor of Social Welfare and Law University of California Los Angeles      Sunday Afternoon ,1879
