and corporations We know that we can make things better by driving a high mileage car eating locally grown food and buying energy efficient appliances but these improvements are incremental local and insufficient More crucial than our individual efforts to reuse and recycle will be reforms in the global political economy to reduce the inequalities of consumption and correct the imbalance between growing economies and environmental sustainability

Food Words Peter Jackson, 2013-06-27 Food Words is a series of provocative essays on some of the most important keywords in the emergent field of food studies focusing on current controversies and on going debates Words like choice and convenience are often used as explanatory terms in understanding consumer behavior but are clearly ideological in the way they reflect particular positions and serve specific interests while words like taste and value are no less complex and contested Inspired by Raymond Williams Food Words traces the multiple meanings of each of our keywords tracking nuances in different academic commercial and policy contexts Mapping the dynamic meanings of each term the book moves forward from critical assessment to active intervention an attitude that is reflected in the lively sometimes combative style of the essays Each essay is research based and fully referenced but accessible to the general reader With a foreword by eminent food scholar Warren Belasco Professor of American Studies at the University of Maryland Baltimore County and written by an inter disciplinary team associated with the CONANX research project Consumer culture in an age of anxiety Food Words will be essential reading for food scholars across the arts humanities and social sciences

Industrial Ecology and Spaces of Innovation K. Green, 2006-01-01 This is an especially timely book Carefully organized and well motivated its power lies in the explicit effort to ask how industrial ecology and innovation studies do can and should intersect Reid Lifset Yale School of Forestry and Environmental Studies and editor Journal of Industrial Ecology This book explores the disciplinary interfaces and practical implications of working across the two disciplines of industrial ecology IE and innovation studies IS Both disciplines have something to say about instigating environmental improvement and more sustainable futures

IE is predicated on the idea that social and economic systems mirror or should be made to mirror natural ecological systems. Proponents of IE devise models and techniques to trace material and energy resource flows as they move through social and economic systems. They propose policy and management improvements to increase the resource efficiency of such systems. By contrast, IS researchers work with the idea that innovation is a dynamic activity vital to social and economic change and is shaped by a range of actors in industry, in government and in households. The authors illustrate the conceptual and practical problems and opportunities of working across this bi-disciplinary interface with case studies presented from each and from hybrid perspectives that draw on both. These include applied examples from IE such as an evaluation of industrial symbiosis in the UK and from working projects in industrialising countries. Cases that originate with IS cover the areas of food, construction and waste incineration. New directions for conceptual development and further research are also offered. Conceptual blindspots and research gaps are identified at the interface of the two disciplines. Industrial Ecology and Spaces of Innovation will appeal to a wide and interdisciplinary audience including academics and researchers of environmental innovation, management and economics, industrial ecology and schools of environmental engineering. Business environmental practitioners, consultants and managers working with techniques such as life cycle analysis, environmental impact assessment and collaborative industrial symbiosis initiatives will also find much to engage them within this book.

La Situación Del Mundo 2004, 2004-03-29. Analiza cómo consumimos por qué consumimos y cuáles el impacto de nuestras opciones de consumo sobre el planeta y el resto de los seres humanos.

Happier Meals Danielle Nierenberg, Lisa Mastny, 2005. This book documents the harmful effects of factory farming in both industrialized and developing countries and explains the range of problems it can cause. From transmission of disease and loss of livestock diversity to hazardous and unsanitary processing methods, it shows clearly why factory farming is an unsafe, inhumane and ecologically disruptive form of meat production. Also shows how the individual can make a difference by supporting local organic or pasture raised animal products.
