early years my two boys Joshua and Matthew weren't always sure if they wanted to go to school. Sometimes one or both would be a little sleepy and sluggish or forget to pack his school bag. To encourage them in a playful way I started to ask them, "When you walk to the school bus today will you be a penguin or a polar bear?" We talked about what they thought the characteristics of these animals might be if they were like human children. I would then ask them to decide which animal they felt like that day. Often one chose to be a penguin and the other a polar bear. They would gather up their school supplies and act out their chosen animal as they walked down our driveway to the bus stop. My polar bear would walk slowly with slumped shoulders and drag his feet. In a long drawn out melancholy way he would announce, "I'm a polar bear today." My penguin would quickly gather his belongings and burst out the door waddling like a penguin all the way to the bus stop. He would wave to me and say, "Today I feel like a penguin and I'm ready for the day." This morning routine didn't eliminate all their anxiety about going to school. It did, however, allow them to identify their feelings. It was important to me that my boys understood their feelings were valid and they were loved and supported regardless of the animal they chose. It became a silly and fun teaching game for our family. It is my hope that your family will enjoy this book and continue this tradition within your home. Now it's your turn: you tell me penguin or polar bear, which will you be?

Brenda Jones Of Penguins and Polar Bears Christopher Wright, 2020-03-06 We have been cruising and exploring polar waters since the nineteenth century but very little has been written about them. With over a hundred stunning pictures this is a must-have gazetteer for anyone thinking about cruising the Earth's last frontier. From William Bradford's cruise to Greenland in a seal hunting boat in 1869 to the newest builds of the twenty-first century let Arctic expert Christopher Wright take you on a journey through lands less travelled.
