such as physical human social financial environmental political and cultural capital Serving the Marginalized through Design Education Steven B. Webber,2024-07-02 Design education and practice are inherently social from process to implementation This book explores the transformation in design education as educators prepare their students to address complex social design problems for all people in society This seven chapter volume provides the reader with a range of viewpoints on the role of design education in shaping the world The book begins with the overarching potential of design to address the needs of an increasingly complex society and the importance of worldview that underpins education methodology Each chapter addresses a context that varies by discipline architecture graphic packaging and interior design and location Nigeria Canada Lebanon UK and USA The authors pull back the curtain on their educational methods and provide the reader with a candid view of their teaching outcomes The needs of the marginalized victims of Asian hate students with dyslexia tomato farmers and even design students themselves are brought into focus here These specific places and peoples provide a design context that can be translated to other situations in design education and practice Design educators and practitioners of many design disciplines will benefit from the philosophical discussions and the practical education examples offered here This volume can contribute to transforming design education that will one day transform design practice to place a greater emphasis on the needs of the forgotten in society Sustainable Communities, Sustainable Development Paul James,Yaso Nadarajah,Karen Haive,Victoria C. Stead,2012-07-31 Papua New Guinea is going through a crisis A concentration on conventional approaches to development including an unsustainable reliance on mining forestry and foreign aid has contributed to the country s slow decline since independence in 1975 Sustainable Communities Sustainable Development attempts to address problems and gaps in the literature on development and develop a new qualitative conception of community sustainability informed by substantial and innovative research in Papua New Guinea In this context sustainability is conceived in terms that include not just practices tied to economic development It also informs questions of wellbeing and social integration community building social support and infrastructure renewal In short the concern with sustainability here entails undertaking an analysis of how communities are sustained through time how they cohere and change rather than being constrained within discourses and models of development From another angle this project presents an account of community sustainability detached from instrumental concerns with economic development Contributors address questions such as What are the stories and histories through which people respond to their nation s development What is the everyday social environment of groups living in highly diverse areas migrant settlements urban villages remote communities They seek to contribute to a creative and dynamic grass roots response to the demands of everyday life and local global pressures While the overdeveloped world faces an intersecting crisis created by global climate change and financial instability Papua New Guinea with all its difficulties still has the basis for responding to this manifold predicament Its secret lies in what has been seen as its weakness underdeveloped economies and communities where people still maintain sustainable relations to each other and the natural world Ageing Resource Communities Mark Skinner,Neil Hanlon,2015-09-16 Throughout the world s hinterland regions people are growing old in resource dependent communities that were neither originally designed nor presently equipped to support an ageing population This book provides cutting edge theoretical and empirical insights into the new phenomenon resource frontier ageing to understand the diverse experiences of and responses to rural population ageing in the early 21st century The book explores the resource hinterland as a new frontier of rural ageing and examines three central themes of rural population change community development and voluntarism that characterize ageing resource communities By investigating the links among these three themes the book provides the conceptual and empirical foundations for the future agenda of rural ageing research This timely contribution contains 15 original chapters by leading international experts from Australia New Zealand USA Canada UK Ireland and Norway
