plenty Through toil and enterprise successive owners grew rich on the Tocal lands until in 1965 private ownership ceased and a new agricultural college was born on the site That college now retaining the name given to the land by its original custodians grew into a thriving educational centre with tentacles of training reaching throughout the nation 2022 marks a significant milestone in the history of the land This brief overview of its story including the millennia before dispossession has been compiled by four authors with over 170 years of combined memories associated with Tocal College and recording its agriculture and its history Over its history Tocal has touched many families and many lives and it continues to expand its reach including to the descendants of its original peoples who cared for and respected its resources This book in a small way pays homage to all of those lives

Dam the Rivers, Damn the People Barbara J. Cummings, 2013-11-05 The Brazilian Amazon is the largest area of tropical rainforest in Latin America Brazil is that continent's most rapidly developing country The Amazon is at the heart of the conflict between conservation and development between people and power and between heritage and modernisation In the name of development the powerful are colonizing the forest The greatest new threat comes from the massive hydro electric schemes which are being pushed ahead with little regard to efficacy the rights of the people or the survival of the forest Dam the Rivers Damn the People is about two of the most affected areas Balbina in Amazonas and the Xingu River in Para Barbara Cummings describes the plans which the state attempted to keep secret the extent to which these projects will destroy the forest the consequent dispossession of the people of the forest and above all their growing resistance She shows how the outcome of their fight affects us all Originally published in 1990

Journeys into the Rainforest (Terra Australis 43) Åsa Ferrier, 2015-11-27 This monograph presents the results of archaeological research that takes a longitudinal approach to interpreting and understanding Aboriginal European contact It focuses on a small but unique area of tropical rainforest in far north Queensland's Wet Tropics Bioregion located within the traditional lands of the Jirrbal Aboriginal people on the Evelyn Tableland The research integrates a diverse range of data sources archaeological evidence recovered from Aboriginal open sites occupied in the pre to post contact periods historical documents of early ethnographers settlers and explorers in the region supplemented with Aboriginal oral history testimony Analyses of the archaeological evidence excavated from three open sites facilitated the identification of the trajectories of culture change and continuity that this investigation focused on Aboriginal rainforest material culture and technology plant subsistence strategies and rainforest settlement patterns Analyses of the data sets demonstrate that initial use of the rainforest environment on the Evelyn Tableland occurred during the early Holocene period with successful adaptation and a change towards more permanent Aboriginal use of the rainforest becoming established in the late Holocene period European arrival and settlement on traditional Aboriginal land resulted in a period of historical upheaval for the Aboriginal rainforest people Following an initial period of violent interactions and strong Aboriginal resistance from the rainforest Jirrbal Aboriginal people continued to adapt and transform their traditional culture to accommodate for the many changes forced upon them throughout the post contact period      AS Level Geography Ann Bowen, John Pallister, 2000 This work aims to combine comprehensive coverage of the full range of topics with a flexible approach to learning It covers basic geographical skills and offers help with revision and exam techniques      Young People's Voice in School Science Marianne Logan, 2023-11-27 This book highlights young people's changing attitudes toward and interest in science over the course of a five year longitudinal study Utilizing a mixed methods approach the author presents rich data from children and young people as well as their parents and teachers By providing a glimpse of science pedagogy from the perspective of young people and those who work with them the book identifies factors that affect students interest in science throughout their primary and secondary education The book also examines a posthumanist philosophical approach to science education and emphasizes the interrelationship of all things within the context of science education      People, Places and Themes Alan Bilham-Boulton, 2001 This textbook follows the structure of the Bristol Project OCR Syllabus C Aimed at the full ability range it covers skills techniques and approaches to coursework The material supports students preparing for the decision making exercise and the final exam      Communicating Climate Science - HC 254 Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Select Committee on Science and Technology, Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee, Andrew Miller, 2014-04-02 The Government is failing to clearly and effectively communicate climate science to the public There is little evidence of co ordination amongst Government government agencies and public bodies on communicating climate science despite various policies at national and regional level to mitigate and adapt to climate change The mandate to act on climate can only be maintained if the electorate are convinced that the Government is acting on the basis of strong scientific evidence Ministers therefore need to do more to demonstrate that is the case and consistently reflect the Government approach in all their communications especially with the media The report also criticises the BBC for its reporting on the issue It points out that BBC News teams continue to make mistakes in their coverage of climate science by giving opinions and scientific fact the same weight The BBC is called to develop clear editorial guidelines for all commentators and presenters on the facts of climate that should be used to challenge statements from either side of the climate policy debate that stray too far from the scientific facts It is important that climate science is presented separately from any subsequent policy response Government should work with the learned societies and national academies to develop a source of information on climate science that is discrete from policy delivery comprehensible to the general public and responsive to both current developments and uncertainties in the science
