People and plans Herbert Julius Gans, 1972 People and Plans Herbert J. Gans, 1972 Chasing the American Dream William M. Rohe, Harry L. Watson, 2018-07-05 Providing decent safe and affordable housing to low and moderate income families has been an important public policy goal for more than a century In recent years there has been a clear shift of emphasis among policymakers from a focus on providing affordable rental units to providing affordable homeownership opportunities Due in part to programs introduced by the Clinton and Bush administrations the nation's homeownership rate is currently at an all time high Does a house become a home only when it comes with a deed attached Is participation in the real estate market a precondition to engaged citizenship or wealth creation The real estate industry's marketing efforts and government policy initiatives might lead one to believe so The shift in emphasis from rental subsidies to affordable homeownership opportunities has been justified in many ways Claims for the benefits of homeownership have been largely accepted without close scrutiny But is homeownership always beneficial for low income Americans or are its benefits undermined by the difficulties caused by unfavorable mortgage terms and by the poor condition or location of the homes bought Chasing the American Dream provides a critical assessment of affordable homeownership policies and goals Its contributors represent a variety of disciplinary perspectives and offer a thorough understanding of the economic social political architectural and cultural effects of homeownership programs as well as their history The editors draw together the assessments included in this book to prescribe a plan of action that lays out what must be done to make homeownership policy both effective and equitable People, Plans, and Policies Herbert J. Gans, 1991 Urban Theory Alan Harding, Talja Blokland, 2014-05-13 What is Urban Theory How can it be used to understand our urban experiences Experiences typically defined by enormous inequalities not just between cities but within cities in an increasingly interconnected and globalised world This book explains Relations between urban theory and modernity in key ideas of the Chicago School spatial analysis humanistic urban geography and radical approaches like Marxism Cities and the transition to informational economies globalization urban growth machine and urban regime theory the city as an actor Spatial expressions of inequality and key ideas like segregation ghettoization suburbanization gentrification Socio cultural spatial expressions of difference and key concepts like gender sexuality race ethnicity and culturalist perspectives on identity lifestyle subculture How cities should be understood as intersections of horizontal and vertical of coinciding resources

Vliet, Elizabeth D. Huttman, Sylvia Fleis Fava, 1985 Drawing upon research from six continents Housing Needs and Policy Approaches analyzes the social problems involved with providing housing in the industrialized nations and in the Third World The book focuses on four areas of concern current trends in housing in specific Western countries the role of Western governments in creating this housing housing provisions in less developed nations and the relationship of societal structure and housing particularly with respect to the decentralization of population occurring in many regions Interior

Urbanism Charles Rice, 2016-02-25 Vast interior spaces have become ubiquitous in the contemporary city The soaring atriums and concourses of mega hotels shopping malls and transport interchanges define an increasingly normal experience of being inside in a city Yet such spaces are also subject to intense criticism and claims that they can destroy the quality of a city's authentic life on the outside Interior Urbanism explores the roots of this contemporary tension between inside and outside identifying and analysing the concept of interior urbanism and tracing its history back to the works of John Portman and Associates in 1960s and 70s America Portman increasingly recognised as an influential yet understudied figure was responsible for projects such as Peachtree Center in Atlanta and the Los Angeles Bonaventure Hotel developments that employed vast internal atriums to define a world of possibilities not just for hotels and commercial spaces but for the future of the American downtown amid the upheavals of the 1960s and 70s The book analyses Portman's architecture in order to reconsider major contexts of debate in architecture and urbanism in this period including the massive expansion of a commercial imperative in architecture shifts in the governance and development of cities amid social and economic instability the rise of postmodernism and critical urban studies and the defence of the street and public space amid the continual upheavals of urban development In this way the book reconsiders the American city at a crucial time in its development identifying lessons for how we consider the forces at work and the spaces produced in cities in the present

Social Work and the City Charlotte Williams, 2016-07-18 This book critically explores ways of thinking about the city and its relevance for the profession of social work It provides a colourful illustration of practice drawing on examples of social work responses to a range of issues emerging from the unprecedented scale density and pace of change in cities The associated challenges posed for social work include the increased segregation of the poor the crisis of affordable housing homelessness gentrification ageing displacement as a result of migrations and the breakdown of social support and care Drawing on multiple disciplines this groundbreaking work shows that these familiar features of the twenty first century can be counteracted by the positive aspects of the city its innovation creativity and serendipity It has a redistributive caring and cohesive potential The city can provide new opportunities and resources for social work to influence to collaborate to foster participation and involvement and to extend its social justice mandate The book shows that the city represents a critical arena in terms of the future of social work intervention and social work identity In doing so it will be of great interest to students and scholars of social work social policy community work and urban studies Politics and Conflict in Governance and Planning Ayda Eraydin, Klaus Frey, 2018-09-18 Politics and Conflict in Governance and Planning offers a critical evaluation of manifold ways in which the political dimension is reflected in contemporary planning and governance. While the theoretical debates on post politics and the wider frame of post foundational political theory provide substantive explanations for the crisis in planning and governance, still there is a need for a better understanding of how the political is manifested in the planning contents shaped by institutional arrangements and played out in the planning processes. This book undertakes a reassessment of the changing role of the political in contemporary planning and governance. Employing a wide range of empirical research conducted in several regions of the world, it draws a more complex and heterogeneous picture of the context specific depoliticisation and repoliticisation processes taking place in local and regional planning and governance. It shows not only the domination of market forces and the consequent suppression of the political but also how political conflicts and struggles are defined, tackled and transformed in view of the multifaceted rules and constraints recently imposed to local and regional planning. Switching the focus to how strategies and forms of depoliticised governance can be repoliticised through renewed planning mechanisms and socio political mobilisation, Politics and Conflict in Governance and Planning is a critical and much needed contribution to the planning literature and its incorporation of the post politics and post democracy debate.

The Human Experience of Space and Place Anne Buttimer, David Seamon, 2015-06-03 Humanistic geography is one of the major emerging themes which has recently dominated geographic writing. Anne Buttimer has been one of the leading figures in the rise of humanistic geography and the research students she collected round her at Clark University in the 1970s constituted something of a school of humanistic geographers. This school developed a significantly new style of geographical inquiry giving special emphasis to people's experience of place, space and environment and often using philosophical and subjective methodology. This collection of essays, first published in 1980, brings together this school and offers insight into philosophical and practical issues concerning the human experience of environments. An extensive range of topics are discussed and the aim throughout is to weave analytical and critical thought into a more comprehensive understanding of lived experience. This book will be of interest to students of human geography.

DIY Urbanism in Africa Stephen Marr, Patience Mususa, 2023-11-02 Protracted economic crises accelerating inequalities and increased resource scarcity present significant challenges for the majority of Africa's urban population. Limited state capacity and widespread infrastructure deficiencies common in cities across the continent often require residents to draw on their own resources, knowledge and expertise to resolve these life and livelihood dilemmas. DIY Urbanism in Africa investigates these practices. It develops a theoretical framework through which to analyze them and it presents a series of case studies to demonstrate how residents invent new DIY tactics and strategies in response to security, place making or economic problems. This book offers a timely critical intervention into literatures on urban development and politics in Africa. It is valuable to students, policymakers and urban practitioners keen to understand the mechanisms and political implications of widespread dynamics now shaping
