Perceiving Talking Faces From Speech Perception To A Behavioral Principle Cognitive Psychology:

Perceiving Talking Faces, 1998 Perceiving Talking Faces Dominic W. Massaro, 1998 This book discusses the author's experiments on the use of multiple cues in speech perception and other areas and unifies the results through a logical model of perception Perceiving Talking Faces Dominic W. Massaro, 1997 The Cognitive Penetrability of Perception John Zeimbekis, Athanassios Raftopoulos, 2015-07-02 According to the cognitive penetrability hypothesis our beliefs, desires, and possibly our emotions literally affect how we see the world. This book elucidates the nature of the cognitive penetrability and impenetrability hypotheses, assesses their plausibility, and explores their philosophical consequences. It connects the topic's multiple strands: the psychological findings, computationalist background, epistemological consequences of cognitive architecture, and recent philosophical developments at a time when the outcome of many philosophical debates depends on knowing whether and how cognitive states can influence perception. All sixteen chapters were written especially for the book. The first chapters provide methodological and conceptual clarification of the topic and give an account of the relations between penetrability, encapsulation, modularity, and cross-modal interactions in perception. Assessments of psychological and neuroscientific evidence for cognitive penetration are given by several chapters. Most of the contributions analyse the impact of cognitive penetrability and impenetrability on specific philosophical topics: high-level perceptual contents, the epistemological consequences of penetration, nonconceptual content, the phenomenology of late perception, metacognitive feelings, and action. The book includes a comprehensive introduction which explains the history of the debate, its key technical concepts: informational encapsulation, early and late vision, the perception-cognition distinction, hard-wired perceptual processing, perceptual learning, theory-ladenness, and the debate's relevance to current topics in the philosophy of mind and perception, epistemology, and philosophy of psychology Interdisciplinary Research John Atkinson, Malcolm Crowe, 2006-11-02 An important book by researchers from across disciplines introducing varying ideas on research important in these days of interdisciplinary and multi-centered investigation. The book introduces academics to new areas of endeavour and encourages researchers and students to think broadly when devising their studies. Linking chapters present the contributions in an historical and theoretical context, identifying the themes between the approaches and encourages new thinking about old problems. Includes contributions from leading researchers across the quantitative-qualitative spectrum from marine biology to spirituality. With funding under increasing pressure, the different views will help departments form new alliances and encourage interdisciplinary working The Handbook of Multisensory Processes Gemma Calvert, Charles Spence, Barry E. Stein, 2004 Research is suggesting that rather than our senses being independent, perception is fundamentally a multisensory experience. This handbook reviews the evidence and explores the theory of broad underlying principles that govern sensory interactions regardless of the specific senses involved Advances in Child Development and Behavior Robert V. Kail, 2002-10-24 Advances in Child Development and Behavior is intended to ease the
