Gropman, 1996 Mobilizing U.S. Industry John N Ellison, Jeffery W. Frumkin, Timothy W. Stanley, 2021-11-28 Originally published in 1988 this volume outlines the need for a series of organisational reforms new studies and committees to focus attention on mobilization issues and to provide an administrative framework for enhancing the mobilization base The authors point out that mobilization is becoming a more viable US national security option Case studies are used around raw materials of petroleum ferroalloys machine tools and semi conductors which highlight common problems of diminishing domestic market share and growing reliance on foreign sector capacity declining profits research and development expense a decline of skilled labour and economic decline in subsector industries The Economic Consequences of U.S. Mobilization for the Second World War Alexander J. Field, 2022-10-18 A reminder that war is not always or even generally good for long term growth Many believe that despite its destructive character war ultimately boosts long term economic growth For the United States this view is often supported by appeal to the experience of the Second World War understood as a triumph of both production and productivity Alexander Field shows that between 1941 and 1945 manufacturing productivity actually declined depressed by changes in the output mix and resource shocks from enemy action including curtailed access to natural rubber and on the Eastern Seaboard petroleum The war forced a shift away from producing goods in which the country had a great deal of experience toward those in which it had little Learning by doing was only a partial counterbalance to the intermittent idleness and input hoarding that characterized a shortage economy and dragged down productivity The conflict distorted human and physical capital accumulation and once it ended America stopped producing most of the new goods The war temporarily shut down basic scientific research and the ongoing development of civilian goods U S world economic dominance in 1948 Field shows was due less to the experience of making war goods and more to the country s productive potential in 1941 The United States Shipbuilding and Ship Repair Industry: Adequate for Prolonged Global Conflict? Robert Martin Brown, 1989 Emergency preparedness and industrial mobilization United States.
