Political Environments Usha C. V. Haley, 2001 Multinational Corporations in Political Environments advances and tests a theory of why foreign corporations leave host states Theories of international business have often ignored the complexity of corporate decisions about leaving foreign countries generally assuming that the economic and competitive reasons that prompt multinational corporations to enter host states also explain their subsequent reasons for leaving Alternatively this book proposes a theory of how different stakeholders' OCO values and ethics shape multinationals' OCO strategic leaving behaviors Tested in South Africa when US multinationals were facing diverse pressures from stockholders governments and consumers to leave the research provides a prism to isolate how different stakeholders' OCO actions influenced multinationals' OCO behaviors Chinese Migrant Networks and Cultural Change Adam McKeown, 2001-05 Inspired by recent work on diaspora and cultural globalization Adam McKeown asks in this new book How were the experiences of different migrant communities and hometowns in China linked together through common networks Chinese Migrant Networks and Cultural Change argues that the political and economic activities of Chinese migrants can best be understood by taking into account their links to each other and China through a transnational perspective Despite their very different histories Chinese migrant families businesses and villages were connected through elaborate networks and shared institutions that stretched across oceans and entire continents Through small towns in Qing and Republican China thriving enclaves of businesses in South Chicago broad based associations of merchants and traders in Peru and an auspicious legacy of ancestors in Hawaii migrant Chinese formed an extensive system that made cultural and commercial exchange possible

Research in Family Business Philip Phan,John E. Butler,2008-03-01 Until recently research in family business has been confined to a sub group of entrepreneurship scholars labor economists and sociologists Family business employment is often the only economic option available to migrants the first entrepreneurial experience for young people and a source of an economy s new business creation activities These issues are typically framed in terms of the generational transfer of wealth management succession or the interplay between the economic system of a family and its sociopolitical system The phenomenon is clearly widespread but for some reason continues to be poorly understood We believe that progress on the empirical front has been hampered by a lack of accepted theoretical frameworks For example attempts to employ agency theory geographic agglomeration and spill overs social networks sense making bargaining and other frameworks have been scattered In our view the extant research has not created the theoretic ballast that can withstand repeated empirical verification More fundamentally researchers are beginning to ask Is family business theoretically distinctive or a convenient phenomenon for exploiting familiar theories with new data We believe the time is ripe for a focused look at the theoretical history and prospects of family business research Review articles grounded in economics sociology psychology and political economy and that offer multidisciplinary implications are especially sought Theory based empirical papers are also welcomed We believe that there are exciting opportunities for theory development and so encourage authors to focus on this in their submissions In sum the focus of this volume is on showcasing and advancing the latest research in family business
