book introduces readers to the theory of practice architectures and conveys a way of approaching practice theory through developing a practice sensibility. It shows that in order to change our practices we must also change the conditions that make those practices possible. The book draws on everyday life to illustrate how we can see the world by watching it unfold in practices; it argues that life happens in practices. The theory of practice architectures takes the ontological nature of practices seriously by recognising that practices take place in the real world. Consequently, the book offers a new perspective on how practices happen amidst a vast world of happenings on how we participate in the happeningness of the world through our practices. It invites us to consider whether our practices reproduce or aggravate the contemporary environmental crises confronting the Earth and whether we can transform our current practices to ameliorate these crises. Given its focus and scope, the book will benefit master's and doctoral students in social and educational theory, early career researchers, and established researchers new to practice theory.

Professional Practice and Learning Nick Hopwood, 2016-01-22. This book explores important questions about the relationship between professional practice and learning and implications of this for how we understand professional expertise. Focusing on work accomplished through partnerships between practitioners and parents with young children, the book explores how connectedness in action is a fluid, evolving accomplishment with four essential dimensions: times, spaces, bodies, and things. Within a broader sociomaterial perspective, the analysis draws on practice theory and philosophy, bringing different schools of thought into productive contact, including the work of Schatzki, Gherardi, and recent developments in cultural-historical activity theory. The book takes a bold view, suggesting practices and learning are entwined but distinctive phenomena. A clear and novel framework is developed based on this idea. The argument goes further by demonstrating how new coproductive relationships between professionals and clients can intensify the pedagogic nature of professional work and showing how professionals can support others' learning when the knowledge they are working with and sense of what is to be learned are uncertain, incomplete, and fragile.
