People Of The Great Ocean:

People of the Great Ocean Philip Houghton, 1996-04-18 Human settlement of the western fringes of the Pacific began at least 40 000 years ago Long hazardous sea voyages were the only way of reaching the tiny islands scattered through this vast expanse of ocean Food and shelter were hard to come by even on land This book first published in 1996 documents how these settlers adapted culturally and biologically to the distinctive Pacific environment and how they evolved into the large bodied muscular people seen today in New Zealand Polynesia Micronesia and Melanesia Philip Houghton considers studies of DNA patterns of health and disease and computer simulations of human survival at sea based on the likely routes through the Pacific People of the Great Ocean is a unique work based on extensive research and careful analysis Philip Houghton s text presents detailed technical information but remains highly readable and persuasive Critical Approaches to the Australian Blue Humanities Maxine Newlands, Claire Hansen, 2024-08-07 This interdisciplinary edited collection explores and analyses the field of the blue humanities through an Australian lens The blue humanities is a way of understanding humanity s relationship with water and manifestations of what is referred to as the blue reefs oceans rivers creeks basins and inland bodies of water In its scope this collection emphasises both the importance of the local and the interconnectedness of Australia with global environmental concerns It considers how we conceptualise watery spaces and shades of blue in a country where water is often marked by its absence its ephemerality its politicisation and its dangers Contributors from environmental history environmental social science political science literary studies creative arts Indigenous Knowledge education and anthropology tackle various entanglements between the human the more than human and watery Australian spaces in modern culture It is the first volume to offer a specific dedicated focus on the intersections between Australian space and the blue humanities and it offers a pathway for those wishing to explore critique and advance ideas around the blue humanities in both research and teaching Directly contributing to a growing interdisciplinary field this is the first book to comprehensively examine the blue in Australia appealing to scholars educators and students working across the humanities and social sciences with an interest in the environmental humanities ecopolitics ecocriticism the blue humanities cultural geography environmental history and the role of place Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license The Walking People Paula Underwood, 1993 A collection of Native American stories and legends strange circle and their fight against the world's most ancient depravities Divine Stories Andy Rotman, 2017-12-05 Explore this second volume of translations in vivid prose from one of the most celebrated collections of ancient Buddhist stories. Actions never come to naught even after hundreds of millions of years. When the right conditions gather and the time is right, then they will have their effect on embodied beings. Ancient Buddhist literature is filled with tales of past lives. The Buddha, surrounded by his followers, is asked how it came to be that a certain person has met a particular fate. With his omniscience, the Buddha looks into eons past and uncovers the events that led to the present outcome and foretells the future as well. With stories of wicked wives, patricidal princes, and shape-shifting serpents, Divine Stories offers a fascinating illustration of the law of karma, the truth that the power of good and bad deeds is never lost. These are some of the oldest Buddhist tales ever committed to writing, illuminating the culture of northern India in the early centuries of the common era and bringing to life the Buddhist values of generosity and faith. Andy Rotman's evocative translation combines accuracy with readability, with detailed editorial notes comparing readings in various Sanskrit, Pali, and Tibetan sources. Divine Stories is a major contribution to Indian and Buddhist studies.

Theologies from the Pacific Jione Havea, 2021-07-16 This book offers engagements with topics in mainline theology that concern the lifelines in and of the Pacific. The essays are grouped into three clusters. The first, Roots, explores the many roots from which theologies in and of the Pacific grow, sea and land. Christian teachings and scriptures, native traditions, and island ways. The second, Reads, presents theologies informed and inspired by readings of written and oral texts, missionary traps and propaganda, and teachings and practices of local churches. The final cluster, Routes, places Pacific theologies upon the waters so that they may navigate and voyage. The amanaki hope of this work is in keeping talanoa dialogue going, in pushing back tendencies to wedge the theologies in and of the Pacific, and in putting native wisdom upon the waters. As these Christian and native theologies voyage, they chart the Pacific's sea of theologies.

Islands in History and Representation Rod Edmond, VANESSA SMITH, 2020-10-28 This innovative collection of essays explores the ways in which islands have been used, imagined, and theorised, both by island dwellers and continentals. This study considers how island dwellers conceived of themselves and their relation to proximate mainlands and examines the fascination that islands have long held in the European imagination. The collection addresses the significance of islands in the Atlantic economy of the eighteenth century, the exploration of the Pacific, the important role played by islands in the process of decolonisation, and island-oriented developments in postcolonial writing. Islands were often seen as natural colonies or settings for ideal communities, but they were also used as dumping grounds for the unwanted, a practice which has continued into the twentieth century. The collection argues the need for an island-based theory within postcolonial studies and suggests how this might be constructed. Covering a historical span from the eighteenth to the twentieth century, the contributors include literary and postcolonial critics, historians, and geographers. People's & Howitt's Journal, 1846
