The book is semi-autobiographical and recounts the adventures of a refined youth among coarse and brutal sailors and the seedier areas of Liverpool. Melville wrote Redburn in less than ten weeks. While one scholar describes it as arguably his funniest work, scholar F. O. Matthiessen calls it the most moving of its author's books before Moby-Dick.

Wellingborough: as you are going to sea, suppose you take this shooting jacket of mine along; it's just the thing; take it, it will save the expense of another. You see, it's quite warm, fine, long skirts, stout horn buttons, and plenty of pockets. Out of the goodness and simplicity of his heart, thus spoke my elder brother to me upon the eve of my departure for the seaport. And Wellingborough he added, since we are both short of money, and you want an outfit, and I have none to give you, may as well take my fowling piece along and sell it in New York for what you can get. Nay, take it, it's of no use to me now; I can't find it in powder any more. I was then but a boy. Some time previous my mother had removed from New York to a pleasant village on the Hudson River where we lived in a small house in a quiet way Sad disappointments in several plans which I had sketched for my future life the necessity of doing something for myself united to a naturally roving disposition had now conspired within me to send me to sea as a sailor For months previous I had been poring over old New York papers delightedly perusing the long columns of ship advertisements all of which possessed a strange romantic charm to me Over and over again I devoured such announcements as the following FOR BREMEN The coppered and copper fastened brig Leda having nearly completed her cargo will sail for the above port on Tuesday the twentieth of May For freight or passage apply on board at Coenties Slip To my young inland imagination every word in an advertisement like this suggested volumes of thought A brig The very word summoned up the idea of a black sea worn craft with high cozy bulwarks and rakish masts and yards Coppered and copper fastened That fairly smelt of the salt water How different such vessels must be from the wooden one masted green and white painted sloops that glided up and down the river before our house on the bank
