McAdam, Michael O'Connell, 2016-04-26 Cattle have been the mainstay of Irish farming since the Neolithic began in Ireland almost 6000 years ago Cattle and especially cows have been important in the life experiences of most Irish people directly and or through legends such as the T in B Cuailnge The Cattle raid of Cooley In this book diverse aspects of cattle in Ireland from the circumstances of their first introduction to recent and ongoing developments in the management of grasslands still the main food source for cattle in Ireland are explored in thirteen essays written by experts New information is presented and several aspects relating to cattle husbandry and the interactions of cattle and people that have hitherto received little or no attention are discussed Negotiating the North Sarah Semple, Alexandra Sanmark, Frode Iversen, Natascha Mehler, 2020-06-11 This book brings together the cumulative results of a three year project focused on the assemblies and administrative systems of Scandinavia Britain and the North Atlantic islands in the 1st and 2nd millennia AD In this volume we integrate a wide range of historical cartographic archaeological field based and onomastic data pertaining to early medieval and medieval administrative practices geographies and places of assembly in Norway Sweden Denmark Iceland the Faroe Islands Scotland and eastern England This transnational perspective has enabled a new understanding of the development of power structures in early medieval northern Europe and the maturation of these systems in later centuries under royal control In a series of richly illustrated chapters we explore the emergence and development of mechanisms for consensus We begin with a historiographical exploration of assembly research that sets the intellectual agenda for the chapters that follow We then examine the emergence and development of the thing in Scandinavia and its export to the lands colonised by the Norse We consider more broadly how assembly practices may have developed at a local level yet played a significant role in the consolidation and at times regulation of elite power structures Presenting a fresh perspective on the agency and power of the thing and cognate types of local and regional assembly this interdisciplinary volume provides an invaluable in depth insight into the people places laws and consensual structures that shaped the early medieval and medieval kingdoms of northern Europe

Ostensibly a geographer the author of this work Emyr Estyn Evans broadened the outlook of his academic work to include a consideration of folklife popular and material culture and the effects of environment on the human outlook In doing so Evans became a cultural historian whose geographical focus was Ireland and Atlantic Europe This collection of his writings conveys the unrecorded history Evans devoted himself to an account which went beyond a simple history of elites and documents

Dublin, City and County F. H. A. Aalen, Kevin Whelan, John Harwood Andrews, 1992 A collection of essays by historians geographers and archaeologists Shapes of Ireland John Harwood Andrews, 1997 House Life Donna Birdwell-Pheasant, Denise Lawrence-Züniga, 2020-06-04 This book which fills a gap on the materiality of lived relations examines households within the context of their immediate physical surroundings of home and shows how human interactions are reflected in built forms Houses are dynamic participants in family life in many ways They often pre date the origins and outlast the life spans of their inhabitants but they can exert a powerful influence on the organization of behaviors and the values of family members as well as on the forms and flows of family life across the generations Constituting wealth investment security and inheritance they are an objective in and of themselves in many domestic strategies Drawing on developments within anthropology archaeology architecture and social history the authors demonstrate through detailed case studies how household or family relations can usefully be mined to re situate social theory in both space and time Space boundaries family cycles historic changes migration patterns ethnicity memory and gender are all interrogated for the light they shed on how people interact with the physical world around them and what this means culturally and symbolically Europe is an especially rich focus for this kind of analysis because it is distinguished by its long well documented history and a recent period of intense change From Corrib to Cultra Trefor M. Owen, 2000
