Detroit And The "Good War" Dominic J. Capeci Jr.,2021-12-14 Edward J Jeffries Jr was elected mayor of Detroit in 1937 and for a decade led the city through a period of race riots union turmoil and unprecedented growth Jeffries s circle of friends was made up primarily of newspaper reporters who shared his interests and lifestyle Devoted to family they nevertheless worked long hours smoked heavily drank moderately and gambled often in their running card games of gin and poker After Pearl Harbor Jeffries watched his closest friends most twelve to fourteen years his junior enlist in the armed forces Voracious letter writers over the next four years they shared with one another their innermost hopes and fears They told stories about Gen George S Patton the surrender of Japan of commanding African American soldiers during the Normandy invasion and the battles on the home front in the heart of Detroit the Arsenal of Democracy These letters present a candid portrait of the intellectual and political leadership of Detroit and America These men were confident in their values aware of their responsibilities and logical in their actions as they helped forge the weapons that turned back the fascist threat to democracy Their letters also reveal a level and kind of male camaraderie seemingly lost in the depersonalized technocratic society of the postwar era As such this work provides a more complete understanding of how Americans reacted to and were changed by the Good War
