With their marriage teetering on the brink, Ashton's dwindling trust gives way to mounting suspicions. Is he genuinely the financial virtuoso he purports to be, or is there a more sinister game afoot? As her marital bonds unravel, Ashton finds herself ensnared in a tangled web of deception. Each thread she tugs unravels a path leading her ever closer to a truth she may not be ready to confront. When she loses her way, she looks to a friend from her past to help her find herself again. The Long Journey Robert Luis Rabello, 2009-12-23. The Crafting of Chaos Hildegard Kuester, 1994. In this study of the Canadian novelist Margaret Laurence, recent narratological models provide the theoretical framework for a textual analysis that aims at complementing previous thematic critiques. The chief focus is on The Stone Angel and The Diviners which the conclusion then presents in the context of the other novels in Laurence's Manawaka cycle. Consideration of the published works is rounded off with genetic comparison of the novelist's typescript drafts and an evaluation of the manuscript notes kept in the archives of McMaster and York Universities. The central structural principle of The Stone Angel is its dovetailing of past and present scenes. Temporal arrangement reflecting the frequency and duration of Hagar's memories reveals the hold of memory over the central character and her attempts to suppress her fear of mortality. Hagar as narrator manipulates character presentation and description to her own advantage. In a basically oppositional structure her need for control is reflected in the neat ordering of the narrative. The verbal texture of the novel serves to establish a value system that insists on the superiority of imported culture over Western Canadian forms. The Diviners shares a number of narrative similarities with The Stone Angel but the latter's formal rigidity has yielded by the time Laurence writes her last novel to the concept of multiplicity: characters, time planes, perspectives, and narrative voices including metafictional commentaries. Textual coherence is secured via narrative strategies including typography, generational paradigms, repetition, parallelism, intertextuality, and tropological patterning that render the novel readable and present experience as ordered in a time of cultural flux and personal crisis.
