journalist's travelogue of war-torn Sri Lanka brings refreshing clarity and enlightenment to our understanding of terrorism. Robert Young Pelton, armed with a map and a motorcycle, ventures to Sri Lanka's war zone to interview terrorists, generals, and heroin dealers on their own terms. He seeks only to understand the conflict and witness the civil war's effects on the country. As he travels north through Colombo, Kandy, and the damaged city of Jaffna, Meadows discovers an island of beauty and abundance ground down by three decades of war. He is invited into an ancient culture where he learns to trap an elephant, weave rope from coconut husks, cast out devils, and even have afternoon tea with terrorists. Meadows' story and take on the war focuses on the interconnectedness of globalization, the media, and modern terrorism in what Greg Mortenson, author of Three Cups of Tea, calls an excellent undertaking. Kari Kilgore, 2021-03-24. A Brewing Disaster. Regina Burke never expects trouble on a fine morning in Bountyfield, Virginia. Especially trouble involving her sweet nephew Trevor. But trouble knows its own schedule and holds its own secrets. Now Regina races to keep Trevor from driving into a nightmare neither imagined. Will she find him in time before the nightmare wins? An excerpt from A Race Against Tea Time. A good kid headed straight into hot water. Pam shook her head sharply once to the left, then the right. You really need to get around here and start making phone calls. I'm guessing the folks Trevor delivers to aren't in the best of health. From what you're telling me about this jimsonweed, we need to make damn sure they don't brew it up thinking they can settle down for their afternoon naps. Regina held her breath, trying not to imagine Trevor's face if he was part of something like that happening, even with his usual best of intentions. She could wish all day long for a drone or a helicopter or a high-tech satellite tracking device that wouldn't work on narrow mountain roads anyway. Or she could do her best to help him like she always had. Thank you, Pam. Show me where I won't be in your way. We'll find him. A Long Road To Freedom

Mary Mc Cartan, 2011-07-22. A Long Road to Freedom: The Life of Patrick Mc Crystal. An Irish Soldier's Cry for Peace. By Mary Mc Cartan. Most men returning from World War 2 never spoke about their experiences. Still, in their youth, they simply closed the book on the past and started a new life. The young Irish fellows returning, especially to the North, were forced to bury their history even further down and completely deny it for their own safety. Patrick Mc Crystal was one of those men who arrived home alive with a story of horror. But he locked that story inside for 53 years before being forced to tell it. This is his story. A first-hand experience of a lifetime of war through the eyes of one peace-loving man who has seen the devastation of some of the most gruesome attacks on civilian populations in the 20th Century. Patrick found himself in Malta in 1940, trapped in the most bombed place in world history. After surviving that siege, he ended up in the frontline as the Germans slaughtered British troops on Leros. As a POW, Patrick helped bury the tens of thousands of German civilians killed in Dresden by Allied attacks. On returning home to peaceful normality, war found him again in 1969. Raising a family through the Northern Ireland Troubles was difficult, and Patrick suffered the loss of his own daughter in the bombing of his hometown of Omagh in 1998. This is the survival story of a man who has seen the best and worst of human nature and
