Conrad,2022-08-22 This book invites readers to challenge corroborate and add to the discourse on more inclusive pedagogical practice Presenting theoretically and empirically informed research it highlights potential considerations regarding the intersections of diversity literacy and learner difficulties These three areas provide a stage where opposing paradigms often pose challenges for educators and create unnecessary barriers to providing the best education for all learners These barriers might reveal how students are positioned through a deficit lens rather than one that recognizes individual differences and how these learner differences sometimes result in labels or put students at increased risk of encountering difficulties The contributing authors goals are to start and sustain a conversation that examines these perspectives and to offer counter narratives to the deficit lens by recognizing that individual difference does not need to be a barrier to educational access By examining opportunities for more inclusive educational success this book encourages discourse among key stakeholders further it goes beyond problematizing to offer new avenues for optimal learning and inclusive pedagogy across multiple contexts

Differentiating for Success Nancy Witherell, Mary C. McMackin, 2016-06-16 Creating differentiated instruction is an essential yet time consuming component of effective teaching. Since students learn at different paces and in different ways, some students may be able to apply a targeted comprehension skill in cognitively complex ways immediately after being taught the skill, while other students may need additional scaffolding in order to grasp it. All students, regardless of their skill level, benefit from activities that are at their just right level. This means activities are not too difficult or too easy. In this book, Nancy Witherell and Mary McMackin share easy-to-follow lesson plans that address key reading skills for students in grades 3 to 5. A set of three tiered differentiated follow-up activities accompanies each lesson. Fiction and nonfiction mentor text suggestions are included.
