Hendricks,2024-11-15 How do towns come into existence What circumstances determine whether they succeed or fail In The Colonial Towns of Piedmont North Carolina author Christopher E Hendricks looks at one region in eighteenth century America to explore answers to these questions He examines the establishment and development of eleven towns in the Piedmont classifying them into three types county towns formed by the establishment of government institutions such as a courthouse trade towns formed around commercial opportunities and religious towns such as the three towns developed in Wachovia a region where Moravians settled He uses these classifications to tell the stories of how these towns came into being and how in their development they struggled against economic cultural and political challenges Ultimately The Colonial Towns of Piedmont North Carolina deepens our understanding of the influence that American towns had on the settlement of the backcountry Hendricks tells the poignant story of the Moravians struggle to maintain their neutral stance during the Revolutionary War surviving exploitation and brutality from both the Continental Army and the British The author also integrates the history of Native Americans into this mix of competing forces and shows how they were challenged by and resisted the newcomers He emphasizes the role of individual initiative as well as the impetus of government specifically courthouses in establishing towns By utilizing a variety of rarely examined primary sources methodological approaches ranging from geographic theory to material culture studies and a deep examination of local history Hendricks provides a comprehensive analysis of the emergence of these towns on the frontier A History of Rowan County, North Carolina Jethro Rumble,1974 The Hand of the Diligent Bradley Burton Livengood,1991 Historical Sketches of North Carolina John Hill Wheeler,1851 Vol 2 has a county by county history and includes some brief family histories and lists of residents Artisans in the North Carolina Backcountry Johanna Miller Lewis,2021-12-14 During the quarter of a century before the thirteen colonies became a nation the northwest quadrant of North Carolina had just begun to attract permanent settlers This seemingly primitive area may not appear to be a likely source for attractive pottery and ornate silverware and furniture much less for an audience to appreciate these refinements Yet such crafts were not confined to urban centers and artisans like other colonists were striving to create better lives for themselves as well as to practice their trades As Johanna Miller Lewis shows in this pivotal study of colonial history and material culture the growing population of Rowan County required not only blacksmiths saddlers and tanners but also a great variety of skilled craftsmen to help raise the standard of living Rowan County s rapid expansion was in part the result of the planned settlements of the Moravian Church Because the Moravians maintained careful records historians have previously credited church artisans with greater skill and more economic awareness than non church craftsmen Through meticulous attention to court and private records deeds wills and other sources Lewis reveals the Moravian failure to keep up with the pace of development occurring elsewhere in the county Challenging the traditional belief that southern backcountry life was primitive Lewis shows that many artisans held public office and wielded power in the public sphere She also examines women weavers and spinsters as an integral part of the population All artisans Moravian and non Moravian male and female helped the local market economy expand to include coastal and trans Atlantic trade Lewis s book contributes meaningfully to the debate over self sufficiency and capitalism in rural America A History of Rowan County, North Carolina Jethro Rumble,2014-01-11 This is a reproduction of a book published before 1923 This book may have occasional imperfections such as missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc that were either part of the original artifact or were introduced by the scanning process We believe this work is culturally important and despite the imperfections have elected to bring it back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide We appreciate your understanding of the imperfections in the preservation process and hope you enjoy this valuable book A History of the Michael Brown Family of Rowan County, North Carolina Richard L.
