European Porcelain in The Metropolitan Museum of Art Jeffrey Munger, Elizabeth Sullivan, 2018-05-09 Porcelain imported from China was the most highly coveted new medium in sixteenth and early seventeenth century Europe Its pure white color translucency and durability as well as the delicacy of decoration were impossible to achieve in European earthenware and stoneware In response European ceramic factories set out to discover the process of producing porcelain in the Chinese manner with significant artistic technical and commercial ramifications for Britain and the Continent Indeed not only artisans but kings noble patrons and entrepreneurs all joined in the quest hoping to gain both prestige and profit from the enterprises they established This beautifully illustrated volume showcases ninety works that span the late sixteenth to the mid nineteenth century and reflect the major currents of European porcelain production Each work is illustrated with glorious new photography accompanied by analysis and interpretation by one of the leading experts in European decorative arts Among the wide range of porcelains selected are rare blue and white wares and figures from Italy superb examples from the Meissen factory in Germany and the Sèvres factory in France and ceramics produced by leading British eighteenth century artisans Taken together they reveal why the Metropolitan Museum s holdings in this field are among the finest in the world p 1

Fisher, 2025-05-15 On Saint Patrick's Day 1990 one of the largest art thefts in the world took place the heist of Boston's Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum in which thirteen works of art worth over half a billion dollars were stolen by two thieves posing as policemen Had there been a prior practice run for this theft Ten years earlier during the Christmas season two thieves who posed as delivery men after hijacking a FedEx van and etherizing its female driver were thwarted in their attempt of a nearly identical robbery at The Hyde Collection in Glens Falls New York an art museum modeled after a one in Boston The young mastermind of these crimes was Brian McDevitt of Swampscott Massachusetts He arrived in the small NY town in the spring of 1980 posing as a rich

Vanderbilt heir and freelance writer Prior to his failed heist he spent two months ingratiating himself to the museum's director the author of this story in hopes of extracting vital information that would aid in his crime The book investigates the planning and execution of The Hyde's attempted robbery and traces McDevitt's various escapades following his jail sentences in New York State and one in Massachusetts over a previous bank heist Ten years later he fled Boston immediately after the Gardner heist and settled in Hollywood California masquerading as a screenwriter When word of his criminal past hit the West Coast he hightailed it to South America to avoid extradition where he mysteriously died FBI and Gardner Museum officials act skeptical about McDevitt's association with the heist yet they claim they know who the perpetrators were but that they are dead raising suspicion that McDevitt may be in the witness protection program This story also explores the fascinating history of these two rather impoverished sister museums with art collections of international renown that were jolted into the recognition of their vulnerabilities following one thwarted and one actual theft And even more fascinating is the possibility that a single individual might have been the mastermind of both crimes

Soviet Salvage Catherine Walworth, 2017-10-10 In Soviet Salvage Catherine Walworth explores how artists on the margins of the Constructivist movement of the 1920s rejected elitist media and imagined a new world knitting together avant garde art imperial castoffs and everyday life Applying anthropological models borrowed from Claude Lévi-Strauss Walworth shows that his mythmaker typologies the engineer and bricoleur illustrate respectively the canonical Constructivists and artists on the movement's margins who deployed a wide range of clever make-do tactics Walworth explores the relationships of Nadezhda Lamanova, Esfir Shub and others with Constructivists such as Aleksei Gan, Varvara Stepanova and Aleksandr Rodchenko Together the work of these artists reflected the chaotic and often contradictory zeitgeist of the decade from 1918 to 1929 and redefined the concept of mass production Reappropriated fragments of a former enemy era provided a wide range of play and possibility for these artists and the resulting propaganda, porcelain, film, fashion and architecture tell a broader story of the unique political and economic pressures felt by their makers An engaging multidisciplinary study of objects and their makers during the Soviet Union's early years this volume highlights a group of artists who hover like free radicals at the border of existing art historical discussions of Constructivism and deepens our knowledge of Soviet art and material culture
