Networking the Russian Diaspora is a fascinating and timely study of interwar Shanghai Aside from the vacated Orthodox Church in the former French Concession where most Russian migrants resided Shanghai today displays few signs of the bustling settlement of those years Russian musicians established the first opera company in China as well as choirs bands and ensembles to play for their own and other communities Russian musicians were the core of Shanghai's lauded Municipal Orchestra and taught at China's first conservatory Two Russian migrant composers in particular Alexander Tcherepnin and Aaron Avshalomov experimented with incorporating Chinese elements into their compositions as harbingers of intercultural music that has become a well recognized trend in composition since the late twentieth century The Russian musical scene in Shanghai was the embodiment of musical cosmopolitanism anticipating the hybrid nature of twenty first century music arising from cultural contacts through migration globalization and technological advancement As a pioneering study of the Russian community Networking the Russian Diaspora examines its musical activities and influence in Shanghai While the focus of the book is on music it also gives insight into the social dynamics between Russians and other Europeans on the one hand and with the Chinese on the other The volume coauthored by Chinese music specialists makes a significant contribution to studies of diaspora cultural identity and migration by casting light on a little studied area of Sino Russian cultural relations and Russian influence in modern China The discoveries stretch the boundaries of music studies by addressing the relational aspects of Western music how it has articulated national and cultural identities but also served to connect people of different origins and cultural backgrounds A History of Russian Music Montagu Montagu-Nathan, 1918 Russian Émigré Culture Christoph Flamm, Henry Keazor, Roland Marti, 2014-07-08

A quarter of a century ago glasnost opened the door for a new look at Russian migrant culture unimpeded by the sterile concepts of Cold War cultural politics Easier access to archives and a comprehensive approach to culture as a multi faceted phenomenon not restricted to single phenomena or individuals have since contributed to a better understanding of the processes within the migrant community of its links with the lost home country and of the interaction with the cultural life of the countries of adoption This volume offers a collection of critical articles that resulted from the international interdisciplinary symposium which was held at Saarland University in November 2011 as part of a one week festival Russian Music in Exile Scholars from around the world contributed essays reflecting current perspectives on Russian migr culture shedding new light on cultural diplomacy literature art and music and covering essentially the whole 20th century from pre revolutionary movements to the present The interdisciplinary approach of the volume shows that migr networks were not confined to a particular segment of culture but united composers artists critics and even diplomats On the whole the contributions to this volume document the fascinating diversity the internal contradictions as well as the impact that the largest and most durable migr movement of the 20th century had on European cultural life Russian Cultural Penetration in Hungary István Csicsery-Rónay, Mátyás Rákosi, Róbert Gábor, Yugoslavia, 1951
