The Grand Strategy of the Russian Empire, 1650-1831 John P. LeDonne,2004 At its height the Russian empire covered eleven time zones and stretched from Scandinavia to the Pacific Ocean Arguing against the traditional historical view that Russia surrounded and threatened by enemies was always on the defensive John P LeDonne contends that Russia developed a long term strategy not in response to immediate threats but in line with its own expansionist urges to control the Eurasian Heartland LeDonne narrates how the government from Moscow and Petersburg expanded the empire by deploying its army as well as by extending its patronage to frontier societies in return for their serving the interests of the empire He considers three theaters on which the Russians expanded the Western Baltic Germany Poland the Southern Ottoman and Persian Empires and the Eastern China Siberia Central Asia In his analysis of military power he weighs the role of geography and locale as well as economic issues in the evolution of a larger imperial strategy Rather than viewing Russia as peripheral to European Great Power politics LeDonne makes a powerful case for Russia as an expansionist militaristic and authoritarian regime that challenged the great states and empires of its time
