Sacred Woman Holistic Healing Katie White,2023-09-21 We live in a world where no one truly knows what it means to be a woman For centuries we ve had to fight for our rights and our place in society We constantly have to strive to be respected and recognized for our successes and abilities As we grow up many women are shamed for whatever they do They are told to lose weight to look more flattering gain weight to look more feminine become smarter to earn a place in society play dumb because males feel threatened and the list goes on Many of us feel like we always have to tweak our appearance or behavior to become more likable and appealing The worst part is that no one seems to realize or accept that we would still be called out no matter what we do Feminine in our society is often perceived as less We allow everyone's expectations perceptions and behavior to tear right through us Though that's because no one realizes the power that comes with being a woman A magnificent force lies inside every woman known as the Divine Feminine or the Sacred Feminine This force is a representation of the connection we have with the mother goddess It is an inner power that calls us to the mother goddess and breathes life into us

Denise Noble, 2017-02-17 This book traces the powerful discourses and embodied practices through which Black Caribbean women have been imagined and produced as subjects of British liberal rule and modern freedom It argues that in seeking to escape liberalism's gendered and racialised governmentalities Black women's everyday self making practices construct decolonising and feminising epistemologies of freedom These in turn repeatedly interrogate the colonial logics of liberalism and Britishness Genealogically structured the book begins with the narratives of freedom and identity presented by Black British Caribbean women It then analyses critical moments of crisis in British racial rule at home and abroad in which gender and Caribbean women figure as points of concern Post war Caribbean immigration to the UK decolonisation of the British Caribbean and the post emancipation reconstruction of the British Caribbean loom large in these considerations In doing all of this the author unravels the colonial legacies that continue to underwrite contemporary British multicultural anxieties This thought provoking work will appeal to students and scholars of social and cultural history politics feminism race and postcoloniality The Search for Wholeness and Diaspora Literacy in Contemporary African American Literature

Silvia Castro-Borrego, 2011-05-25 This volume has as a cohesive argument the exploration of the different manifestations of the search for wholeness and spirituality in the writings of contemporary African American women writers covering different literary genres such as fiction both novels and short stories drama and poetry Together with the issue of spirituality the African American search for wholeness is analyzed as a source of creativity and agency As expressed in the contemporary literature of black women writers starting in the 1980s the search for wholeness reflects a beauty realized through the healing of the spirit and the body and is a process that takes on dimensions of reconciling the past and the present the mythical and the real the spiritual and the physical all in the context of an emerging world view that welcomes synthesis and expects both synthesis and generative contradictions The book will be a valuable collection for scholars of African American literature comparative American Ethnic literature American literature and spirituality as well as women s studies In addition it will be an important text for both undergraduate and graduate students in those fields As Professor Johnnella Butler 2006 points out the African American search for wholeness is tightly linked to the search for freedom and agency Ever since the 19th century African American writers have given expression to an African American self which functions in Western civilization simultaneously as a colonized other and an assertive self Due to the continuous ordeal of the African Diaspora this self is caught in between the binaries proposed by the material and the spiritual world seeking a balance where the person can become whole The search for wholeness feeds from cultural roots that imply the presence of ancestral spiritualism rememory and double consciousness Contemporary black women writers reflect the metaphor of building spiritual bridges seeking the possibilities of building a bridge to the archetypal African past that is carried in their memories as a presence that offers sustenance via spiritual reconnection Their works seek to bridge the gap between the myths and traditions of the past and contemporary African American culture The texts included in this collection are examples of writing as an exercise of what V v Clark calls Diaspora literacy The texts written by contemporary African American women writers explicitly show how to recognize and read the cultural signs left scattered along the road of progress In this way material acquisition is achieved along with cultural dispossession becoming a metaphor for the history of the African in America The powerful message is that one should not exclude the other
