Looking Back to the Future Griselda Pollock, 2014-04-08 In this selection of recent essays Pollock insightfully engages all major areas of contemporary theory especially focusing on sexed subjectivities post colonialism and Marxist informed history In her commentary Penny Florence places Pollock s critique of modernism art history and criticism within the context of the social political and ideological developments that have taken place since the 1970s Florence recognizes in Pollock s work a critical model that moves beyond the contradictions that take place within the history of art Pollock s own essays and Florence s commentary elaborate the complexities in evaluating this prominent theorist and feminist whose work demands a capacity to sustain contradiction

Looking Back into the Future M. S. Prabhakara, 2020-11-29 The book examines questions of identity ethnicity sovereignty and insurgency in northeastern India and especially on Assam and its neighbourhood Written by an academic journalist the various articles situate these in their larger social economic political and above all historical context the last being especially important in their becoming a part of colonial India relatively late well after colonial control was established in the rest of India Based on close ground level experience involving extensive travel and interaction with the people this collection is the result of a long journalistic career spanning nearly 50 years in the northeast region Written in simple lucid language the essays cover a range of themes including culture belief and identity homeland and language politics and insurgency and separatism The volume also achieves a uniquely dual historical value while the articles themselves include a lot of historical information tracing the roots of the various issues discussed the articles themselves range from 1974 to 2010 providing the modern reader with a series of historical moments captured in their immediacy Of interest to students academics researchers in politics peace conflict studies politics sociology history language those interested in northeast India policy makers cultural studies etc

China's India War, 1962: Looking Back to See the Future Air Commodore Jasjit Singh, 2013-03-15 A potential competition exists between India and China and there is also no doubt that China started the war Highlighting the mistakes made by India rather than empirically analysing the available data can be regarded as the primary causes for the confusion that exists today Though complete details and evidence of the developments are available and documented few of us have attempted to draw up a pragmatic and realist analysis The consequences of that war have yet to die down entirely and are frequently raked up with issues on recent developments which are not widely dissimilar to those of 1962 China is a complex country To understand this rapidly progressing nation is even more difficult There are many perceptions on this country and many of them are formed on account of some international events and China's growing assertiveness It may be far fetched to expect for a paradigm change in stance and motive which could give China an uncertain negotiating position This edited volume provides the reader an excellent blend of the historical run up to the aberration the military developments and consequences It is also provides useful material to understand the geographical boundary issues between India and China and developing Chinese strategies both on the political and military front

Looking Back, Moving Forward Girish Daswani, 2015-02-26 How do Ghanaian Pentecostals resolve the contradictions of their own faith while remaining faithful to their religious identity Bringing together the anthropology of Christianity and the anthropology of ethics Girish Daswani's Looking Back Moving Forward investigates the compromises with the past that members of Ghana's Church of Pentecost make in order to remain committed Christians Even as church members embrace the break with the past that comes from being born again many are less concerned with the boundaries of Christian practice than with interpersonal questions the continuity of suffering after conversion the causes of unhealthy relationships the changes brought about by migration and how to deal with them By paying ethnographic attention to the embodied practices interpersonal relationships and moments of self reflection in the lives of members of the Church of Pentecost in Ghana and amongst the Ghanaian diaspora in London Looking Back Moving Forward explores ethical practice as it emerges out of the questions that church members and other Ghanaian Pentecostals ask themselves

Writing Dialogue for Scripts, 2004-03-01

Time and Transcendence G. Motzkin, 2012-12-06 This book investigates one aspect of the story of how our religiously oriented culture became a secular one It concentrates on the conflicts enveloping the attitude to the past from the late seventeenth to the early twentieth century The background argument is that the way the process of secularization occurred in one particular religious context the Roman Catholic one was determinative for the possibility of something such as secular culture and hence for both the modern secular attitude to the past and the modern religious one In recent years a spate of scholarship has suggested that the expanded version of Weber's theory according to which modernity is a consequence of Protestantism is not quite accurate Robert Merton modified this theory to argue that modern natural science originated in the context of seventeenth century 1 Protestant England Against this position many scholars have investigated 2 origins for the development of science in Catholic countries The development of natural science however is not the whole story of the development of modern secular culture even if the story of that development is restricted to the development of knowledge Our modern universities are organized around the division between humanities and natural sciences and it can be thought that this process of modernization or secularization affected the humanities no less than the sciences

Science Fiction and the Historical Novel Ian P. MacDonald, Kate Polak, 2024-09-16 If you woke to realize that you could rewrite your yesterday without knowing the kind of tomorrow it would grant you would you do it Are the authors of our destiny working with an outline or spit balling confusing plotlines Since the past changes possible futures to what alighting butterfly should we pay the most heed This book explores the liminal space between speculative fiction and the historical novel Staged as a transnational multicultural conversation it takes up a call originally made by Fredric Jameson in Archaeologies of the Future wherein he describes that flashpoint between speculative and historical genres as the symptom of a mutation in our relationship to historical time itself Drawing together postcolonial feminist cultural Indigenous and cognitive approaches Science Fiction and the Historical Novel asks what the past can offer a future oriented world and how the future can be imagined in relation to a past that seeks narratives of inevitability rather than possibility Engaged with the idea of the past as a model for the future authors in this volume probe the extent to which historical scripts delimit possibilities and how authors engaged with the practice of alternative pasts rewrite potentialities in the present

Memorializing Violence Alison Crosby, Heather Evans, 2025-02-11 Memorializing Violence brings together feminist and queer reflections on the transnational lives of memorialization practices asking what it means to grapple with loss mourning grief and desires to collectively remember and commemorate as well as urges to forget in the face of disparate yet entangled experiences of racialized and gendered colonial imperial militarized and state violence The volume uses a transnational feminist approach to ask How do such efforts in seemingly unconnected remembrance landscapes speak to with and through each other in a world order inflected by colonial imperial and neoliberal logics structures and strictures How do these memorializing initiatives not only formulate within but move through complex transnational flows and circuits and what transpires as they do What does it mean to inhabit loss mourning resistance and refusal through memorialization at this moment and what's at stake in doing so What might transnational feminist analyses of gender race sexuality class and nation have to offer in this regard Seven Years in Sodom Gary Paul Lukas,2010-10
