Literature and Feminism brings unique literary critical and historical perspectives to the relationship between women's writing and women's rights in British contexts from the late eighteenth century to the present. Thematically organised around five central concepts: Rights, Networks, Bodies, Production and Activism, the Companion tracks vital questions and debates offering fresh perspectives on changing priorities and enduring continuities in relation to women's ongoing struggle for liberty and equality. This groundbreaking collection brings into focus the historical and cultural conditions which have shaped the formation of British literary feminisms including the legacies of slavery, colonialism and Empire. From the political novel of the 1790s to early twentieth century suffrage theatre and contemporary ecofeminism and from the mid-Victorian antislavery movement to anti-fascist activism in the 1930s and working class women's writing groups in the 1980s, this book testifies to the diverse and dynamic character of the relationship between literature and feminism. Featuring contributions from leading feminist scholars, the Companion offers new insights into the crucial role played by women's literary production in the evolving history of women's rights discourses, feminist activism and movements for gender equality. It will appeal to students and scholars in the fields of women's writing, British literature, cultural history and gender and feminist studies.

A Writer's House in Wales Jan Morris, 2011-06-15 Through an exploration of her country home in Wales, acclaimed travel writer Jan Morris discovers the heart of her fascinating country and what it means to be Welsh. Trefan Morys, Morris's home between the sea and mountains of the remote northwest corner of Wales, is the 18th-century stable block of her former family house. Nearby, surrounding it, are the fields and outbuildings, the mud, sheep and cattle of a working Welsh farm. She regards this modest building not only as a reflection of herself and her life but also as epitomizing the small and complex country of Wales which has defied the world for centuries to preserve its own identity. Morris brilliantly meditates on the beams and stone walls of the house, its jumbled contents, its sounds and smells, its memories and inhabitants and finally discovers the profoundest meanings of Welshness.

Trieste Jan Morris, 2010-12-22 Jan Morris then James first visited Trieste as a soldier at the end of the Second World War. Since then, the city has come to represent her own life with all its hopes, disillusionments, loves and memories. Here, her thoughts on a host of subjects: ships, cities, cats, sex, nationalism, Jewishness, civility and kindness are inspired by the presence of Trieste and recorded in or between the lines of this book. Evoking the whole of its modern history from its explosive growth to wealth and fame under the Habsburgs through the years of Fascist rule to the miserable years of the Cold War when rivalries among the great powers prevented its creation as a free city under United Nations auspices, Trieste and the Meaning of Nowhere is neither a history nor a travel book like the place it is: one of a kind. Jan Morris's collection of travel writing and reportage spans over five decades and includes such titles as Venice Coronation, Everest, Hong Kong, Spain, Manhattan 45, A Writer's World and the Pax Britannica Trilogy. Her novel was shortlisted for the Booker Prize and the Arthur C Clarke Award.
