Fixico, 2024-09-27 Now in its second edition The American Indian Mind in a Linear World examines the persistence of Native peoples in retaining their own worldviews from the pre Columbian era into the twenty first century The book explores the ways in which Indian people who are close to their cultural traditions think in a circular fashion understand by relying on visual analysis and make decisions from an Indigenous logic Yet Comanches have a different reality from Mohawks Apache ethos is not like that of the Lakotas and Indian men and women see things differently How and why is the Native mind different from the western world Why have white teachers and missionaries tried to change the minds of Native students The Indian perspective is not wrong it is simply different and inclusive another way of looking at the world and universe This edition updates the discussion with a new chapter on contemporary American Indian intellectualism and further analysis of the preservation of Indigenous traditional knowledge Approachable and engaging this volume is a key resource for students and scholars of Native American and Indigenous studies and Indigenous history The American Indian Mind in a Linear World Donald Fixico, 2013-07-04 Currently there are three approaches to studying American Indians from how white Americans approach Indian studies from the dynamics or exchange of Indian white relations and from the Indian point of view Donald Fixico an American Indian has been teaching and writing history for a quarter of a century This book is the direct result of his experience as a scholar who thinks like an Indian in an academic environment created predominantly by non Indian thinkers This book addresses current approaches to studying Native American traditional knowledge and acknowledges an Indian intellectualism that has up until now been ignored in studying Native American history Written primarily from inside the Native world but fully cognizant of the American cultures outside of that world his unique voice speaks to a need for understanding the interior Native world a world in which linear thinking is atypical and circularity is preferable

Native Wisdom for White Minds Anne Wilson Schaef,2013-08-14 You don t have to be white to have a white mind What is a white mind As Anne Wilson Schaef learned during her travels throughout the world among Native Peoples anyone raised in modern Western society or by Western culture can have a white mind White minds are trapped in a closed system of thinking that sees life in black and white either or terms they are hierarchical and mechanistic they see nature as a force to be tamed and people as objects to be controlled with no regard for the future This worldview is not shared by most Native Peoples and in this provocative book Anne Wilson Schaef shares the richness poured out to her by Native Americans Aborigines Africans Maoris and others In the words of Native Peoples themselves we come to understand Native ideas about our earth spirituality family work loneliness and change For in every area of our lives we have the capacity to transcend our white minds we simply need to listen with open hearts and open minds to other voices other perceptions other cultures Anne Wilson Schaef often heard Elders from a wide variety of Native Peoples say Our legends tell us that a time will come when our wisdom and way of living will be necessary to save the planet and that time is now Anyone ready to move from feeling separate to a profound sense of connectedness from the personal to the global will find the path in this mind expanding deeply spiritual book

Museums and the Representation of Native Canadians Moira McLoughlin, 2018-10-24 If we were to think about museums as three dimensional maps as spaces to be divided defended and privileged what would they tell us about the place of Native Canadians within the larger nation Utilizing a combination of exhibit analysis and interviews this book explores how Canadian history anthropology and art museums have situated Native Canadian history and culture within a larger narrative of nationhood Until very recently these museums have with few exceptions perpetuated the continued isolation of Native Canadians on the Other side of carefully demarcated boundaries of time space and culture Despite a living and highly politicized presence outside their walls inside these museums Native Canadians have remained fixed and isolated in time and space This book discusses how this particular image of Native Canadians has been translated into the numerous dichotomies and borders of the museum between modern and traditional past and present myth and science progress and stasis active and passive and ultimately us and them However in tribal museums and more recent programming at the larger museums we are able to identify alternative maps that realign these borders and give voice to alternative constructions of these histories The past decade has seen enormous change in how museum curators educators and directors imagine their role in these museums and more particularly in the construction of a history of Native Canadians This book considers how museums and those who work within them have responded to the challenge of writing a more complex and multivocal history for the nation
