Psychology A New Perspective:

Psychology Dalmas A. Taylor, Sidney A. Manning, 1975 New Perspectives on Inner Speech Pablo Fossa, 2022-08-08

Inner speech has been a focus of multidisciplinary interest. It is a long standing phenomenon of study in philosophy, psychology and anthropology. Researchers from different disciplines have turned their efforts to understand this inherent experience of being talking to oneself. In psychology, Vygotsky managed to develop a complete description of the phenomenon giving rise to a great line of research related to inner speech in the human experience. Including a compilation of theoretical and empirical advances related to inner speech phenomenon, this book is aimed at academics and researchers in the area of psychology, education and culture. This book will be of interest to international research programs related to cultural psychology, socio-constructivism, developmental psychology and education.

New Perspectives on Neo-Kantianism and the Sciences Helmut Pulte, Jan Baedke, Daniel Koenig, Gregor Nickel, 2024-07-05

This volume considers the exchange between the Neo-Kantian tradition in German philosophy and the sciences from the last third of the nineteenth century to the Great War and partly beyond. During this period, various scientific disciplines underwent modernisation processes characterised by an increasing empirical inclination and a decline in the influence of metaphysics, the pluralisation of theories and the historical and pragmatic revitalisation of scientific claims against philosophy. The various contributions look at the ways in which a certain Kantian orthodoxy was influenced by these new developments and whether and how itself had some impact on the development of the sciences. The volume is not limited to the exact sciences of mathematics and physics, which are particularly important for the Kantian tradition, but also takes into account less recognised disciplines such as biology, chemistry, technology and psychology. It is complemented by contributions that contrast Neo-Kantianism with other scientific philosophies of the period in question.

New Perspectives on Goffman in Language and Interaction Lorenza Mondada, Anssi Peräkylä, 2023-09-27

This collection highlights new perspectives on the work of Erving Goffman, revisiting his place in contemporary social theory and interactional linguistics research and its impact in surfacing new insights in conversation analysis and our understanding of Goffman's legacy. The volume outlines the theoretical foundations of Goffman's research across linguistics and the social sciences. Bringing together a cross-disciplinary group of scholars, the book is organized around these themes with sections on self and identity, participation and bodily practices in social interaction. Each chapter comprises three perspectives: look back at Goffman's original texts, their correlation in contemporary empirical research in conversation analysis, and a discussion of conceptual implications in relevant fields such as interactional sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology, critical sociolinguistics and related disciplines. Taken as a whole, the book not only offers a comprehensive critical overview of Goffman's legacy in empirical work in conversation analysis and the social sciences but also the conceptual grounding for new studies to investigate his continuing role in contemporary scholarship. This innovative collection will be of interest to students and scholars in sociolinguistics, linguistic anthropology and critical discourse analysis.

The variety, pace, and power of technological innovations that have emerged in the 21st Century have been breathtaking. These technological developments, which include advances in networked information and communications, biotechnology, neurotechnology, nanotechnology, robotics, and environmental engineering technology, have raised a number of vital and complex questions. Although these technologies have the potential to generate positive transformation and help address grand societal challenges, the novelty associated with technological innovation has also been accompanied by anxieties about their risks and destabilizing effects. Is there a potential harm to human health or the environment? What are the ethical implications? Do these innovations erode or antagonize values such as human dignity, privacy, democracy, or other norms underpinning existing bodies of law and regulation? These technological developments have therefore spawned a nascent but growing body of law and technology scholarship broadly concerned with exploring the legal, social, and ethical dimensions of technological innovation. This handbook collates the many and varied strands of this scholarship, focusing broadly across a range of new and emerging technology and a vast array of social and policy sectors through which leading scholars in the field interrogate the interfaces between law, emerging technology, and regulation. Structured in five parts, the handbook I establishes the collection of essays within existing scholarship concerned with law and technology as well as regulatory governance. II explores the relationship between technology development by focusing on core concepts and values which technological developments implicate. III studies the challenges for law in responding to the emergence of new technologies, examining how legal norms, doctrine, and institutions have been shaped, challenged, and destabilized by technology, and even how technologies have been shaped by legal regimes. IV provides a critical exploration of the implications of technological innovation, examining the ways in which technological innovation has generated challenges for regulators in the governance of technological development and the implications of employing new technologies as an instrument of regulatory governance. V explores various interfaces between law, regulatory governance, and new technologies across a range of key social domains.
