

Defeated in the English Civil War which had raged since 1642, King Charles I was under house arrest at Whitechapel for 10 months in 1647-48.

As first he had freedom of the ward but early in 1648 John Burton of Newcastle tried to free King Charles, and was hanged. Afterwards Charles was confined to the castle. Still, he could walk and play tennis on a green made for him.

As for his page, Henry Freston, the king tried to escape twice more in the first attempt, he climbed through a window in the back garden, but he got stuck in the bars (the king's back garden is now inside the museum).

The second attempt was made in this area, where cellars and dungeons had been built by George Carter 40 years before. Charles tried to climb out of the window above you but he was betrayed by his guard. They had been moved to better escape, but they really turned him in.
