has long provided fertile ground for the construction and reconstruction of new forms of classicism. From the aftermath of slavery up to the present day, black authors, intellectuals, and artists in the Atlantic world have shaped and reshaped the cultural legacies of classical antiquity in a rich variety of ways in order to represent their identities and experiences and reflect on modern conceptions of race, nation, and identity. The studies presented in this volume range across the Anglophone, Francophone, and Hispanophone worlds, including literary studies of authors such as Derek Walcott, Marlene Nourbaev, Philip Junot, and biographical and historical studies and explorations of race and classicism in the visual arts. They offer reflections on the place of classicism in contemporary conflicts and debates over race and racism and on the intersections between classicism, race, gender, and social status, demonstrating how the legacies of ancient Greece and Rome have been used to buttress racial hierarchies but also to challenge racism and Eurocentric reconstructions of antiquity.

Visual, Material and Textual Cultures of Food and Drink in China, 200 BCE-1900 CE Stacey Pierson, 2022-08-25. This collection of essays examines aspects of the history of food and drink in China through an innovative interdisciplinary lens. Arranged in chronological and thematic order, the chapters present the research of a diverse group of international scholars and cover subjects ranging from Han period tomb paintings, jade goblets used for ceremonial elixirs, and pottery figurines of kitchen servants to Tang gold vessels, Ming porcelain wine cups, and 18th century imperial tea houses. This volume can therefore be read as a material history of Chinese food and drink through utensils and ingredients such as tea and wine, as well as a developmental survey of drinking and dining practices, food cultures, and culinary concepts in historical China. It will appeal to anyone with an interest in Chinese culinary history, Chinese art, and archaeology, as well as world food cultures.

Urban Avant-Gardes Malcolm Miles, 2004-07-31. Urban Avant Gardes presents original research on a range of recent contemporary practices in and between art and architecture, giving perspectives from a wide range of disciplines in the arts, humanities, and social sciences that are seldom juxtaposed. It questions many assumptions and accepted positions. This book looks back to past avant gardes from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, examining the theoretical and critical terrain around avant garde cultural interventions and profiles a range of contemporary cases of radical cultural practices. The author brings together material from a wide range of disciplines to argue for cultural intervention as a means to radical change while recognizing that most such efforts in the past have not delivered the dreams of their perpetrators. Distinctive in that it places works of the imagination in the political and cultural context of environmentalism, this book asks how cultural work might contribute to radical social change. It is equally concerned with theory and practice, part one providing a theoretical framework and part two illustrating such frameworks with examples.
