Russian Major:

Napoleon's Russian Campaign of 1812 Edward Foord, 2019-12-06 In Napoleon's Russian Campaign of 1812 Edward Foord meticulously examines one of the most significant military endeavors of the early 19th century. The book intricately weaves a narrative combining rigorous historical analysis with vivid storytelling, bringing to life the harrowing experiences of soldiers and strategists alike. Foord employs a critical perspective, drawing on primary sources and contemporary accounts to dissect the campaign's strategic miscalculations and the harsh realities of the Russian winter, situating the campaign within the broader context of Napoleonic Wars and European power dynamics. Edward Foord, a distinguished historian with a focus on Napoleonic history, brings a wealth of expertise and passion to this subject. His extensive research into military logistics and leadership not only informs his narrative but also reflects his understanding of the complexities involved in 19th-century warfare. Foord's insights into the motivations and decisions of key figures in the campaign elucidate the multifaceted nature of Napoleonic strategies, enriched by his background in both military studies and historical narratives. This compelling work is highly recommended for historians, military enthusiasts, and general readers alike, as it offers not just an account of a pivotal moment in history but also a profound exploration of human endurance and folly in the face of overwhelming adversity. Foord's careful scholarship and engaging prose invite readers to revisit a defining chapter of European history with fresh eyes.

Dave Dawson on the Russian Front Robert Sydney Bowen, 2016-04-01 Dave Dawson Adventure Series The tougher it is the better I'll like it sir Robert Sydney Bowen Dave Dawson on the Russian Front In this volume Dawson and his pal Freddy Farmer sneak behind enemy lines to try to gather intelligence that could turn the tide for the European Allies Each Dave Dawson is packed with action patriotism and a historical fiction adventure set during WWII perfect for middle grade and teen readers Don't miss the full set of Dave Dawson books from Xist Publishing Dave Dawson at Casablanca Dave Dawson at Dunkirk Dave Dawson at Truk Dave Dawson on Guadalcanal Dave Dawson on the Russian Front Dave Dawson with the Commandos Dave Dawson with the R A F Adventure, 1914 Armenia: Travels and Studies and the Russian Provinces (Complete) Henry Finnis Blossie Lynch, 2020-09-28 On four different occasions both in summer and in winter I have sailed along the southern shore of the Black Sea almost from one extremity to the other yet I do not remember having seen the sky free from heavy clouds during two consecutive days As the ship speeds eastwards along the mountains of Bithynia a thin veil of haze will blend the land outlines together while as the range grows in height with every mile of progress the vapour will collect about its upper slopes in long horizontal black banks Even when the sun of this southern climate has swept the sky of every lingering film when the zenith and the water recall the hues of the Mediterranean the whole scale of brilliant blues somewhere upon the wide circle of the horizon will be lurking the scattered forces of the mist But the stronghold of the cloud is in the mountains of Akhaltsykh at the foot of Caucasus in the extreme eastern angle of the sea Can there exist a more gloomy coast There the sky is always lowering above the inky water and the forests of fir which clothe the range from foot to summit wave darkly like feathers over a pall Such I think are the impressions which the mind most closely associates with the aspect of this sea and shore What a contrast to the smiling landscape of the Bosphorus the strait through which we enter this sad sea or leave it on our return home The cold draught follows the home coming ship up the narrow channel between the wooded cliffs and frets the running tide into crisp little waves which sparkle in the brilliant light The dolphins leap from the blue water and dart shining through the air To the traveller who is returning from a long journey in Asia and a tedious tossing on this grey sea the Bosphorus always bright and gay and beautiful may appear as the promised gate of paradise beyond the world of shades The character of the coast cannot fail to be affected by this climate by this atmosphere Just as the vapours gather thickest where the mountains are most lofty at the south eastern angle of the sea so the vegetation increases in luxuriance and variety the further eastwards we proceed on our course The cliffs or rolling hills about the entrance of the Bosphorus the closing cliffs of the Greek legend which caught the tail feathers of the dove soon give place to the belt of wooded mountains which rise from the immediate margin of the water and stretch from west to east along the entire seaboard to the Phasis and Batum Tier upon tier they rise from the narrow strip of sand and pebbles and grow both in height and in boldness of outline as they stretch towards the east The winds of the open sea the cold winds of Scythia fly over the barrier of the range and the ship may often anchor in smooth water at a point where least protection would appear to be offered by the configuration of the shore But the moisture of the air is arrested at the coast line and hangs about the upper tiers of the mountains or clings to the fir clad slopes These natural conditions are extremely favourable to vegetation and the larger grows the scale upon which they are operating the more abundant becomes the growth of trees and shrubs When at last we have reached the neighbourhood of the Phasis where the wall of this range towers highest above us on the one side and the line of Caucasus closes the horizon on the other the shore becomes clothed with dense forests plants and creepers flourish with tropical exuberance the traveller threading the maze of evergreen woodland might be walking along the banks of the Amazon or through the glades of Mazanderan

The Wavell Room The nature of war is constant change We live in an era of exponential technological acceleration which is transforming how wars are waged Today the battlespace is transparent multi domain sensors can see anything and long range precision fire can target everything that is observed Autonomous weapons can be unleashed into the battlespace and attack any target from above hitting the weakest point of tanks and armored vehicles The velocity of war is hyper fast Battle shock is the operational informational and organizational paralysis induced by the rapid convergence of key disrupters in the battlespace It occurs when the tempo of operations is so fast and the means so overwhelming that the enemy cannot think decide or act in time Hit with too many attacks in multiple domains all occurring simultaneously the enemy is paralyzed In short the keys to decisive victory in war is to generate battle shock Imagine a peer fight against Communist China a new war in Europe against a resurgent Russia or a conflict against Iran in the Middle East How can our forces survive an enemy first strike in these circumstances Can we adapt to the ever accelerating tempo of war Will our forces be able to mask from enemy sensors How will leaders execute command and control in a degraded communications environment Will our command posts
