Sabotage 1936secret Agent:

Hitchcock's British Films Maurice Yacowar, 2010-11-15 A reissued classic that examines the structure and themes of each of Hitchcock's British feature films Originally published in 1977 and long out of print Maurice Yacowar's Hitchcock's British Films was the first volume devoted solely to the twenty-three films directed by Alfred Hitchcock in his native England before he came to the United States As such it was the first book to challenge the assumption that Hitchcock's mature period in Hollywood from the late 1940s to the early 1960s represented the director's best work In this traditional auteurist examination of Hitchcock's early work author Maurice Yacowar considers Hitchcock's British films in chronological order reads the composition of individual shots and scenes in each and pays special attention to the films' verbal effects Yacowar's readings remain compelling more than thirty years after they were written and some on Downhill, Champagne and Waltzes from Vienna are among the few extended interpretations of these films that exist Alongside important works such as Murder the first, The Man Who Knew Too Much, Secret Agent, The Lady Vanishes and Blackmail readers will appreciate Yacowar's equal attention to lesser-known films like The Pleasure Garden, The Ring and The Manxman Yacowar dissects Hitchcock's precise staging and technical production to draw out ethical themes and metaphysical meanings of each film while keeping a close eye on the source material such as novels and plays that Hitchcock used as the inspiration for many of his screenplays Yacowar concludes with an overview of Hitchcock as auteur and an appendix identifying the director's appearances in these films A foreword by Barry Keith Grant and a preface to the second edition from Yacowar complete this comprehensive volume Anyone interested in Hitchcock classic British cinema or the history of film will appreciate Yacowar's accessible and often witty exploration of the director's early work

Hitchcock and the Spy Film James Chapman, 2017-11-30 Film historian James Chapman has mined Hitchcock's own papers to investigate fully for the first time the spy thrillers of the world's most famous filmmaker Hitchcock made his name as director of the spy movie He returned repeatedly to the genre from the British classics of the 1930s including The 39 Steps and The Lady Vanishes through wartime Hollywood films Foreign Correspondent and Saboteur to the Cold War tracts North by Northwest, Torn Curtain and his unmade film The Short Night Chapman's close reading of these films demonstrates the development of Hitchcock's own style as well as how the spy genre as a whole responded to changing political and cultural contexts from the threat of Nazism in the 1930s and 40s to the atom spies and double agents of the post-war world describing the status and value of genre theory then provides a history of British film production that illuminates the politics and personalities connected with the major studios In vivid accounts of the films within each genre she analyzes styles codes and conventions to show how the films negotiate history fantasy and lived experience Throughout Landy creates a dynamic sense of genre and of how the genres shape not merely reflect cultural conflicts Originally published in 1991 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

H. G. Wells, Modernity and the Movies Keith Williams, 2007-12-01 This book investigates Wells s interest in cinema and related media technologies by placing it back into the contemporary cultural and scientific contexts giving rise to them It plugs a gap in understanding Wells s contribution to exploring and advancing the possibilities of cinematic narrative and its social and ideological impacts in the modern period Previous studies concentrate on adaptations this book accounts for the specifically proto cinematic techniques and concerns of Wells s texts It also focuses on contemporary film making in dialogue with his ideas Alongside Hollywood s later transactions it gives equal weight to neglected British and continental European dimensions Chapter 1 shows how early writings The Time Machine and short stories feature many kinds of radically defamiliarised vision These constitute imaginative speculations about the forms and potentials of moving image and electronic media Chapter 2 discusses the power of voyeurism absent presence and the disjunction of sound image reproduction implied in The Invisible Man and its topical politics updated in notable screen versions Chapter 3 extends this to dystopian warnings of systematic surveillance broadcasting of celebrity personae and post literate video culture in When the Sleeper Wakes a crucial template for urban futures on film Chapter 4 analyses Wells s belated return to screenwriting in the 1930s It accounts for his broadbrow ambition of mediating between popular and avant garde tendencies to promote his cause and its mixed results in Things to Come The Man Who Could Work Miracles etc Chapter 5 finally surveys Wells s legacy on both small and large screens It considers whether as well as being raided for scenarios for spectacular effects his subtexts still nourish an evolving tradition of alternative SF which duly critiques the innovations and applications of its host media
