Scimecca, 2023-08-04 This book provides a rationale for a Christian sociology challenging the materialist epistemology of contemporary sociology which provides only a limited understanding of social behavior Developing a history of the origins of sociology that recognizes the centrality of Christianity to the discipline's development it considers the secularization thesis and questions surrounding positivism scientism and postmodernism as well as engaging with the work of a range of figures including Margaret Archer Robert Bellah Peter Berger Hans Joas Thomas Luckmann David Martin and Christian Smith A critique of modern sociology which argues that a Christian approach provides a better explanation than contemporary paradigms of the polarization occurring today in American society The Not So Outrageous Idea of a Christian Sociology will appeal to scholars and students with interests in sociological theory research methods and epistemology and the sociology of religion

People and Buildings Robert Gutman, 2017-07-12 There is at the present time a continuing interest in relating the behavioral sciences to design disciplines Sociologists and social psychologists have been added to faculties of architecture schools where they offer seminars and participate as programming specialists and design critics in studio courses Behavioral scientists in many European countries have collaborated with architects and planners in design work undertaken by governmental ministries and more recently have been participating in the work of private design firms Similar developments are now common in the United States In this fascinating study of the ecology of buildings biologists anthropologists sociologists psychologists and architects analyze the effect of working and living spaces on human behavior Focusing on such contemporary social problems as the influence of the physical environment on psychological stress mental illness family disorganization urban violence and delinquency the contributors show that we must respect the constraints that the environment and the nature of man impose on human adaptability The selections in People and Buildings have been written primarily by scientists and designers working in the behavioral mode The selections within each part have been arranged to provide an ordered argument or exploration of the general topic with which the part as a whole deals To facilitate the reader's appreciation of the argument each selection is preceded by a short prefatory statement In view of the fact that a single article or preface can hardly be representative of the depth of the literature that has developed around an argument Gutman has included an annotated bibliography which is keyed to the selections through the use of subheadings A new introduction by Nathan Glazer has been prepared for this edition

Christotainment Shirley R. Steinberg, Joe L., Joe L. Kincheloe, 2018-04-17 For more than two thousand years Christian expansion and proselytizing was couched in terms of defending the faith Until recently in the United States much of that defense came in the form of reactions against the liberal influences channeled through big corporate media such as popular music Hollywood movies and network and cable television But the election of Ronald Reagan as a Hollywood President introduced Christian America to the tools of advertising and multimedia appeals to children and youth to win new believers to God's armies Christotainment examines how Christian fundamentalism has realigned its armies to combat threats against it by employing the forces it once considered its chief enemies the entertainment media including movies television music cartoons theme parks video games and books Invited contributors discuss the critical theoretical frameworks of top selling devices within Christian pop culture and the appeal to masses of American souls through the blessed marriage of corporatism and the quest for pleasure
