draws from the author's personal experiences as a gay woman and former priest who faced institutional shaming. Drawing on practical theologies of shame and the work of Christian anthropology it challenges traditional theological perspectives on sin and human nature proposing a person-centred model that emphasizes unconditional love and positive self-regard. By exposing and addressing the Church's role in constructing shame the book proposes a pathway towards healing and self-acceptance for those marginalized by faith-based shaming.

Relics and Writing in Late Medieval England Robyn Malo, 2013-12-06

Relics and Writing in Late Medieval England uncovers a wide-ranging medieval discourse that had an expansive influence on English literary traditions. Drawing from Latin and vernacular hagiography, miracle stories, relic lists, and architectural history, this study demonstrates that as the shrines of England's major saints underwent dramatic changes from c. 1100 to c. 1538, relic discourse became important not only in constructing the meaning of objects that were often hidden but also for canonical authors like Chaucer and Malory in exploring the function of metaphor and of dissembling language. Robyn Malo argues that relic discourse was employed in order to critique mainstream religious practice, explore the consequences of rhetorical dissimulation, and consider the effect on the socially disadvantaged of lavish expenditure on shrines. The work thus uses the literary study of relics to address issues of clerical and lay cultures, orthodoxy and heterodoxy, and writing and reform.

Parker, 2018-01-24 Excerpt from Miscellaneous Selections From the Writings of the Late Lizzie G. Parker of Wellsburg West Virginia. They are arranged in Chronological order commencing in 1852 and closing a few months before her death. It was thought that the few of her earliest pieces inserted as the Engraving is for Personal Friends more particularly would not justify a departure in this respect.
