Good Fences, Bad Neighbors Boaz Atzili, 2024-05-31 Border fixity the proscription of foreign conquest and the annexation of homeland territory has since World War II become a powerful norm in world politics This development has been said to increase stability and peace in international relations Yet in a world in which it is unacceptable to challenge international borders by force sociopolitically weak states remain a significant source of widespread conflict war and instability In this book Boaz Atzili argues that the process of state building has long been influenced by external territorial pressures and competition with the absence of border fixity contributing to the evolution of strong states and its presence to the survival of weak ones What results from this norm he argues are conditions that make internal conflict and the spillover of interstate war more likely Using a comparison of historical and contemporary case studies Atzili sheds light on the relationship between state weakness and conflict His argument that under some circumstances an international norm that was established to preserve the peace may actually create conditions that are ripe for war is sure to generate debate and shed light on the dynamics of continuing conflict in the twenty first century

Engaging with a Legacy: Nehemia Levtzion (1935-2003) E. Ann McDougall, 2014-06-11 Engaging with a Legacy shows how Nehemia Levtzion shaped our understanding of Islam in Africa and influenced successive scholarly generations in their approach to Islamization conversion and fundamentalism The book illuminates his work career and family life including his own life vision on the occasion of his 60th birthday It speaks to his relationship with researchers at home and abroad as mentor colleague and provocateur in one section several authors reflect on those dynamics in terms of personal and professional development Levtzion s contemporaries also speak of interactions with him and his life long companion wife Tirza in the 1950s and 1960s we see in these writings the birth of West African historical studies Levtzion s arrival as Israeli graduate student in Nkrumah s Egyptian leaning Ghana and the debate over what African Studies should mean in an environment that included the personal intervention of W E B Du Bois are stories told for the first time Most poignant is the account of Levtzion s commitment to building African Studies complete with emphasis on Islam in the heart of the Jewish state at The Hebrew University His never ending defence of the program reflected his determination to be both engaged historian and engaged Israeli a legacy he chose for himself Finally an Epilogue to the original publication shows how one aspect this legacy Levtzion s growing preoccupation with the public sphere in Muslim societies has become even more relevant in post Arab Spring Africa and the Middle East This book was published as a special issue of the Canadian Journal of African Studies

African Democratization and Military Coups Chuka Onwumechili, 1998-10-30 Onwumechili provides an exciting perspective on African military coups and reminds us that democracy is not synonymous solely with Western societies He examines democracies in traditional Africa and shows how these societies clearly defined and limited the roles of traditional African armies. From this background Onwumechili makes readers appreciate that modern African armies are deviant institutions with no roots in traditional Africa. Rather he argues one has to seek those roots in Africa's recent colonial history. Dr Onwumechili goes on to describe the reasons for coups and their tactics. Finally he examines how military coups can be prevented. While previous solutions have largely failed, Onwumechili provides convincing solutions based on case studies.

African International Relations Mark W. DeLancey, 2019-03-13 African International Relations is a thoroughly revised and updated bibliography that contains annotated entries for international books and journal articles in the field of African international relations.
