Armstrong, Alexandra Lianeri, 2025-03-10 The first volume of its kind to integrate trends in Translation Studies with Classical Reception Studies A Companion to the Translation of Classical Epic provides a comprehensive and wide ranging account of key debates and case studies centered the translation of Greek and Latin epics Rather than situating translation studies as a complementary field or an aspect of classical reception the Companion offers a systematic framework for adapting and incorporating translation studies fully into classical studies Its many chapters elaborate how translation is a central element in the epic's reception trajectories across the globe and addresses theoretical and methodological concerns arising from this conjunction The Companion does not just provide a comprehensive overview of the translation theories it covers but also offers fresh insights into theoretical and methodological issues currently at the top of the interdisciplinary agenda of scholars studying the global routes of ancient epic In its sections leading classicists translation theorists classical reception scholars and cultural historians from Europe and North and South America reconfigure questions this research faces today highlighting methods for an integrated approach It explores how this integrated perspective responds to key challenges in the study of the epic s reception emphasizing topics of temporality gender agency community target language politics and material production A special section also features detailed dialogues with active translators such as Emily Wilson Stanley Lombardo and Susanna Braund who speak extensively and frankly about their work This is a key volume for all students and scholars who want to engage with research reflecting the contemporary agenda in classical reception translation studies and the study of epic in its global literary and cultural routes

Translation Translation ,2021-07-26 Translation Translation contributes to current debate on the question of translation dealt with in an interdisciplinary perspective with implications not only of a theoretical order but also of the didactic and the practical orders In the context of globalization the question of translation is fundamental for education and responds to new community needs with reference to Europe and more extensively to the international world In its most obvious sense translation concerns verbal texts and their relations among different languages However to remain within the sphere of verbal signs languages consist of a plurality of different languages that also relate to each other through translation processes Moreover translation occurs between verbal languages and nonverbal languages and among nonverbal languages without necessarily involving verbal languages Thus far the allusion is to translation processes within the sphere of anthroposemiosis But translation occurs among signs and the signs implicated are those of the semiotic sphere in its totality which are not exclusively signs of the linguistic verbal order Beyond anthroposemiosis translation is a fact of life and invests the entire biosphere or biosemiosphere as clearly evidenced by research in biosemiotics for where there is life there are signs and where there are signs or semiotic processes there is translation indeed semiotic processes are translation processes According to this approach reflection on translation obviously cannot be restricted to the domain of linguistics but must necessarily involve semiotics the general science or theory of signs In this theoretical framework essays have been included not only from major translation experts but also from researchers working in different areas in addition to semiotics and linguistics also philosophy literary criticism cultural studies gender studies biology and the medical sciences All scholars work on problems of translation in the light of their own special competencies and interests economic order development and institutional change It illustrates how Western concepts and theories have been adopted and adapted to Chinese conditions in different waves of modernization from the late 19th century until the present and that this was and is no one way traffic The book examines to what extent pre classical thinking in the West in particular French Physiocracy in mid 18th century was influenced by China as an ideal and a source of ideas at a time when China was the largest and most advanced economy in the world It discusses to what extent different approaches of modern Western style economics in particular in the fields of development economics and institutional economics can be used to understand the rapid transitions and developments of the Chinese economy in recent decades and to what extent they need to be modified in the light of new experiences and insights Against this background several contributions to the volume provide assessments of the current state of economic science and teaching in China in particular with regard to Chinese views on Western economics The book should be of interest to those who are interested in the economic history of China Literary Translation, Reception, and Transfer Norbert Bachleitner, 2020-09-21 The three concepts mentioned in the title of this volume imply the contact between two or more literary phenomena they are based on similarities that are related to a form of travelling and imitation or adaptation of entire texts genres forms or contents Transfer comprises all sorts of travelling with translation as a major instrument of transferring literature across linguistic and cultural barriers Transfer aims at the process of communication starting with the source product and its cultural context and then highlighting the mediation by certain agents and institutions to end up with inclusion in the target culture Reception lays its focus on the receiving culture especially on criticism reading and interpretation Translation therefore forms a major factor in reception with the general aim of reception studies being to reveal the wide spectrum of interpretations each text offers Moreover translations are the prime instrument in the distribution of literature across linguistic and cultural borders thus they pave the way for gaining prestige in the world of literature The thirty eight papers included in this volume and dedicated to research in this area were previously read at the ICLA conference 2016 in Vienna They are ample proof that the field remains at the center of interest in Comparative Literature Tudor Translation in Theory and Practice Massimiliano Morini, 2017-07-05 Filling a gap in the study of early modern literature Massimiliano Morini here exhaustively examines the aims strategies practice and theoretical ideas of the sixteenth century translator Morini analyzes early modern English translations of works by French and Italian essayists and poets including Montaigne Castiglione Ariosto and Tasso and of works by classical writers such as Virgil and Petrarch In the process he demonstrates how connected translation is with other cultural and literary issues women as writers literary relations between Italy and England the nature of the author and changes in the English language Since English Tudor writers unlike their Italian contemporaries did not write theoretical treatises the author works empirically to extrapolate the theory that informs the practice of Tudor translation he deduces several cogent theoretical principles from the metaphors and figures of speech used by translators to describe translation Employing a good blend of theory and practice the author presents the Tudor period as a crucial transitional moment in the history of translation from the medieval tradition which in secular literature often entailed radical departure from the original to the more subtle modern tradition which prizes the invisibility of the translator and fluency of the translated text Morini points out that this is also a period during which ideas about language and about the position of England on the political and cultural map of Europe undergo dramatic change and he convincingly argues that the practice of translation changes as new humanistic methods are adapted to the needs of a country that is expanding its empire

Atzmon,2011-03-11 The essays in VISUAL RHETORIC AND THE ELOQUENCE OF DESIGN foreground the rhetorical functions of design artifacts Rhetoric normally understood as verbal or visual messages that have a tactical persuasive objective a speech that wants to convince us to vote for someone or an ad that tries to persuade us to buy a particular product becomes in Visual Rhetoric and the Eloquence of Design the persuasive use of a broad set of meta beliefs Designed objects are particularly effective at this second level of persuasion because they offer audiences communicative data that reflect and also orchestrate a potentially broad array of cultural concerns Persuasion entails both the aesthetic form and material composition of any object
