Modern British Women Writers Vicki K. Janik, Del Ivan Janik, 2002-11-30 The 20th century witnessed several major cultural movements including modernism anti modernism and postmodernism These and other means of understanding and perceiving the world shaped the literature of that era and with the rise of feminism resulted in a particularly rich body of literature by women writers This reference includes alphabetically arranged entries on 58 British women writers of the 20th century Some of these writers were born in England while others such as Katherine Mansfield and Doris Lessing came from countries of the former Empire or Commonwealth The volume also includes entries for women of color such as Kamala Markandaya and Buchi Emecheta Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes an overview of the writer s background an analysis of her works an assessment of her achievements and lists of primary and secondary sources The volume closes with a selected general bibliography

American Indians in British Art, 1700-1840 Stephanie Pratt, 2013-02-11 Ask anyone the world over to identify a figure in buckskins with a feather bonnet and the answer will be Indian Many works of art produced by non Native artists have reflected such a limited viewpoint In American Indians in British Art 1700 1840 Stephanie Pratt explores for the first time an artistic tradition that avoided simplification and that instead portrayed Native peoples in a surprisingly complex light During the eighteenth century the British allied themselves with Indian tribes to counter the American colonial rebellion In response British artists produced a large volume of work focusing on American Indians Although these works depicted their subjects as either noble or ignoble savages they also represented Indians as active participants in contemporary society Pratt places artistic works in historical context and traces a movement away from abstraction where Indians were symbols rather than actual people to representational art which portrayed Indians as actors on the colonial stage But Pratt also argues that to view these images as mere illustrations of historical events or individuals would be reductive As works of art they contain formal characteristics and ideological content that diminish their documentary value

Situatedness and Performativity Raquel Pacheco Aguilar, Marie-France Gu  nette, 2021-05-31 Translating and interpreting are unpredictable social practices framed by historical ethical and political constraints Using the concepts of situatedness and performativity as anchors the authors examine translation practices from the perspectives of identity performance cultural mediation historical reframing and professional training As such the chapters focus on enacted events and conditioned practices by exploring production processes and the social historical and cultural conditions of the field These outlooks shift our attention to social and institutionalized acts of translating and interpreting considering also the materiality of bodies artefacts and technologies involved in these scenes

Slavery and the Making of Early American Libraries Sean D. Moore, 2019-02-07 Early American libraries stood at the nexus of two transatlantic branches of commerce the book trade and the slave trade Slavery and the Making of Early American Libraries bridges the study of these trades by demonstrating how Americans profits from slavery were reinvested in imported British books and providing evidence that the colonial book market was shaped in part by the demand of slave owners for metropolitan cultural capital Drawing on recent scholarship that shows how participation in London cultural life was very expensive in the eighteenth century as well as evidence that enslavers were therefore some of the few early Americans who could afford to import British cultural products the volume merges the fields of the history of the book Atlantic studies and the study of race arguing that the empire wide circulation of British books was underwritten by the labour of the African diaspora The volume is the first in early American and eighteenth century British studies to fuse our growing understanding of the material culture of the transatlantic text with our awareness of slavery as an economic and philanthropic basis for the production and consumption of knowledge In studying the American dissemination of works of British literature and political thought it claims that Americans were seeking out the forms of citizenship constitutional traditions and rights that were the signature of that British identity Even though they were purchasing the sovereignty of Anglo Americans at the expense of African Americans through these books however some colonials were also making the case for the abolition of slavery

British Literature and Print Culture Sandro Jung, 2013 The complexity of print culture in Britain between the seventeenth and nineteenth century is investigated in these wide ranging articles The essays collected here offer examinations of bibliographical matters publishing practices the illustration of texts in a variety of engraved media little studied print culture genres the critical and editorial fortunes of individual works and the significance of the complex interrelationships that authors entertained with booksellers publishers and designers They investigate how all these relationships affected the production of print commodities and how all the agents involved in the making of books contributed to the cultural literacy of readers and the formation of a canon of literary texts Specific topics include a bibliographical study of Aphra Behn's Oroonoko and its editions from its first publication to the present day the illustrations of John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and the ways in which the interpretive matrices of book illustration conditioned the afterlife and reception of Bunyan's work the almanac and the subscription edition publishing history collecting reading and textual editing especially of Robert Burns's poems and James Thomson's The Seasons the printing for the author practice the illustrated and material existence of Sir Walter Scott's Waverley novels and the Victorian periodical The Athenaeum Sandro Jung is Research Professor of Early Modern British Literature and Director of the Centre for the Study of Text and Print Culture at Ghent University Contributors Gerard Carruthers Nathalie Coll Bak Marysa Demoor Alan Downie Peter Garside Sandro Jung Brian Maidment Laura L Runge The Ideology of Genre Thomas O. Beebee, 1994 In a series of comparative essays on a range of texts embracing both high and popular culture from the early modern era to the contemporary period The Ideology of Genre counters both formalists and advocates of the if genres exist on the other hand then they exist not as essences but as differences and thus those places within and between texts where genres collide reveal the connections between generic status interpretive strategy ideology and the use value of language The Works of Aphra Behn: The fair jilt and other short stories Aphra Behn, 1992 The later romances and the establishment of realism Ernest Albert Baker, 1929
