The ship's crews came from all parts of the then Empire and beyond. One in six of them lost their lives. They did much more taking part in the evacuations and landings throughout the war. They played a key role in several of these operations, particularly the little-known evacuations from France after Dunkirk and the evacuation of Singapore. They manned almost a thousand ships for the D-Day Landings, including more than half of the infantry landing ships and all of the Hospital Carriers that ferried the wounded back to Britain. Calendar of State Papers, Preserved in the State Paper Department of Her Majesty's Public Record Office, 1868 Return to Belgium Bernard O'Connor, 2009-11 Following the German occupation of Belgium and the evacuation from Dunkirk, many wounded soldiers were left behind and captured. Those who escaped and downed Allied pilots and crews were helped to get back to Britain by some remarkable men and women in the Comte escape line. As well as telling the story of André de Jongh, one of its founders, using recently released documents from the National Archives, this book provides details about Elaine Madden, Frieda Dupuich, Olga Jackson and an anonymous blonde woman who had got out of Belgium and yet volunteered to be flown back from RAF Tempsford, Churchill's Most Secret Airfield, and parachuted into occupied Belgium with vital missions to undertake prior to liberation. Diplomatic and Consular Reports Great Britain.
