approximately as numbers are largely unknown and only an estimate 27 000 plus boys from Southern tribes were forced to flee from their homes Traveling naked and barefoot they sought refuge in neighboring Fugnido Ethiopia where a few years later they were forced to flee yet another civil war Returning to Sudan the Islamic government forced them to travel for another five months ultimately arriving in Kakuma Kenya after four years of unthinkable hardship and walking over thousands of miles naked barefoot and ailing from starvation dehydration and diseases Many boys perished along the way and their numbers shrank into few thousands Abraham Deng Ater separated from his family in 1987 is one of approximately 3 800 boys now known as the Lost Boys of Sudan He left Kakuma Refugee Camp in Kenya after several years of massive suffering and was granted refuge in the U S in 2001 Many Lost Boys including Abraham have since become U S citizens and have continued to pursue their education Thousands more have also been granted refuge elsewhere and are scattered around the globe

Canadian Critical Race Theory Carol A. Aylward, 2025-07-17T00:00:00Z The growth of the Critical Race Theory genre began in Canada when scholars of colour in Canada began to articulate a dissatisfaction with the existing Canadian legal discourse which failed to include an analysis of the role that race and racism has played in the political and legal structures of Canadian society This book is about the role that race and racism play in the theory and practice of law It shows how Canadian Black lawyers and others are beginning to seriously consider the role of race in litigation and to develop critical race litigation strategies to address the issue The author documents how a growing body of work designed to move us beyond theory to practical application is being developed to help recognize the complex relationships among race racism and the law
