Pigeons and Doves in Australia Joseph Forshaw, 2015-04 Possibly the most successful urban birds pigeons and doves in the Order Columbiformes are one of the most easily recognised groups They are an ancient and very successful group with an almost worldwide distribution and are most strongly represented in tropical and subtropical regions including Australia In most species simple plumage patterns feature mainly grey and brown with black white or dull reddish markings but the highly colourful fruit doves include some of the most beautiful of all birds From dense rainforests of north Queensland where brilliantly plumaged Superb Fruit Doves Ptilinopus superbus are heard more easily than seen to cold windswept heathlands of Tasmania where Brush Bronzewings Phaps elegans are locally common most regions of Australia are frequented by one or more species For more than a century after arrival of the First Fleet interest in these birds focused on the eating qualities of larger species In addition to contributing to declines of local populations in some parts of Australia excessive hunting brought about the extinction of two species on Lord Howe Island and another species on Norfolk Island In Pigeons and Doves in Australia Joseph Forshaw and William Cooper have summarised our current knowledge of all species including those occurring on Christmas Norfolk and Lord Howe Islands and with superb artwork have given readers a visual appreciation of the birds in their natural habitats Historical accounts of extinct species are also included Detailed information on management practices for all species is presented ensuring that Pigeons and Doves in Australia will become the standard reference work on these birds for ornithologists and aviculturists

Forshaw,2012-08-09 It is not surprising that Australian grassfinches are highly popular with ornithologists and aviculturists for included among the species are one of the most beautiful of all birds the Gouldian Finch Erythrura gouldiae and one of the most familiar cagebirds the Zebra Finch Taeniopygia guttata Despite a scarcity in published works on finches interest in the species is growing leading to a dramatic advancement in our knowledge of many species For example we have gained new information from field observations carried out on little known species including the Blue faced Parrot Finch Erythrura trichroa and the Red eared Firetail Stagonopleura oculata Significant advances in taxonomic research largely as a consequence of the development and refinement of biochemical analyses often involving DNA DNA hybridisation have given us a new insight into relationships among species with some unexpected alliances being determined Additionally dramatic changes have taken place in avicultural practices and in virtually all countries aviculture has taken on a new professional approach with the most notable results being increased productivity and success with a wider variety of species After a lapse of almost half a century since publication of Klaus Immelmann's eminent work on finches based on extensive field studies the time has come for a new examination of Australian grassfinches In Grassfinches in Australia Joseph Forshaw Mark Shephard and Anthony Pridham have summarised our present knowledge of each species and have given readers a visual appreciation of the birds in their natural habitats and in aviculture The resulting combination of superb artwork and scientifically accurate text ensures that this volume will become the standard reference work on Australian grassfinches In addition to enabling aviculturists to know more about these finches in the wild as a guide to their own husbandry techniques detailed information on current management practices for all species in captivity is provided The book also includes colour plates depicting some of the more common mutations held in Australian and overseas collections Annual report - Canadian Seed Growers'
