Shot Countershot Film Tradition And Womens Cinema:

Shot/Countershot Lucy Fischer, Women's Cinema Alison Butler, 2019-07-25 Women's Cinema provides an introduction to critical debates around women's filmmaking and relates those debates to a variety of cinematic practices. Taking her cue from the groundbreaking theories of Claire Johnston, Alison Butler argues that women's cinema is a minor cinema that exists inside other cinemas, inflecting and contesting the codes and systems of the major cinematic traditions from within. Using canonical directors and less established names ranging from Chantal Akerman to Moufida Tlatli as examples, Butler argues that women's cinema is unified in spite of its diversity by the ways in which it reworks cinematic conventions. Women and Turkish Cinema Eylem Atakav, 2013 Since 2000 there has been a considerable effort in Turkish cinema to come to terms with the military's intervention in politics and subsequent national trauma. It has resulted in an outpouring of cinematic texts. This book focuses on women and Turkish cinema in the context of gender politics, cultural identity, and representation. The central proposition of this book is that enforced depoliticisation introduced after the coup is responsible for uniting feminism and film in 1980s Turkey. The feminist movement was able to flourish precisely because it was not perceived as political or politically significant. In a parallel move in the films of the 1980s there was an increased tendency to focus on the individual woman's issues and lives in order to avoid the overtly political. Women and Turkish Cinema provides a comprehensive view of cinema's approach to women in a country which straddles European and Middle Eastern cultural conceptions, identities, and religious values and will be an invaluable resource for students and scholars of Film Studies, Gender Studies, and Middle East Studies amongst others. Vision/re-vision Barbara Tupa Lupack, 1996 Essays analyze ten popular films adapted from contemporary American fiction by women, addressing the ways in which the writers' feminist messages are reinterpreted and examining the extent to which filmmakers adapt, retain, or erase the feminist content of the original fiction. Films examined include Ordinary People, The Women of Brewster Place, and Interview with the Vampire. Contains bandw photos. Paper edition, unseen. 24, 95. No index. Annotation copyrighted by Book News, Inc., Portland, OR. The Zero Hour Andrew Horton, Michael Brashinsky, 2021-03-09 Now faced with the zero hour created by a new freedom of expression and the dramatic breakup of the Soviet Union, Soviet cinema has recently become one of the most interesting in the world, aesthetically as well as politically. How have Soviet filmmakers responded to the challenges of glasnost? To answer this question, the American film scholar Andrew Horton and the Soviet critic Michael Brashinsky offer the first book-length study of the rapid changes in Soviet cinema that have been taking place since 1985. What emerges from their collaborative dialogue is not only a valuable work of film criticism but also a fascinating study of contemporary Soviet culture in general. Horton and Brashinsky examine a wide variety of films from BOMZH (initials standing for homeless drifter) through Taxi Blues and the glasnost blockbuster Little Vera to the Latvian documentary Is It Easy to Be Young and the new wave productions of the Wild Kazakh boys. The authors argue that the medium that once served the Party became a major catalyst for the deconstruction of socialism especially through documentary filmmaking Special attention is paid to how filmmakers from 1985 through 1990 represent the newly discovered past of the pre glasnost era and how they depict troubled youth and conflicts over the role of women in society The book also emphasizes the evolving uses of comedy and satire and the incorporation of genre film techniques into a new popular cinema An intriguing discussion of films of Georgia Estonia Latvia Lithuania and Kazakhstan ends the work challenged and redefined everywhere during the past thirty years but perhaps nowhere more dramatically than in film. Screening Genders is a lively and engaging introduction to the evolving representations of masculinity, femininity, and places once thought to be in between. The book begins with a general introduction that traces the movement of gender theory from the margins of film studies to its center. The ten essays that follow address a range of topics including screen stars, depictions of gay, straight, queer, and transgender subjects, and the relationship between gender and genre. Widely respected scholars including Robert T. Eberwein, Lucy Fischer, Chris Holmlund, E. Ann Kaplan, Kathleen Rowe Karlyn, David Lugowski, Patricia Mellencamp, Jerry Mosher, Jacqueline Reich, and Chris Straayer focus on the radical ideological advances of contemporary cinema as well as on those groundbreaking films that have shaped our ideas about masculinity and femininity not only in movies but in American culture at large. The first comprehensive overview of the history of gender theory in film, this book is an ideal text for courses and will serve as a foundation for further discussion among students and scholars alike.
