

EDUCATIONAL PSYCH REV 1

William James (1842–1910). James argued that laboratory psychology experiments often cannot tell us how to effectively teach children. He emphasized the importance of observing teaching and learning in classrooms for improving education.

2. John Dewey (1859–1952). We owe many important ideas to John Dewey. First, we owe to him the view of the child as an active learner. Dewey (1933) argued that children learn best by doing. Second, we owe to Dewey the idea that education should focus on the whole child and emphasize the child's adaptation to the environment. Dewey reasoned that children should not be just narrowly educated in academic topics but should learn how to think and adapt to a world outside school. He especially thought that children should learn how to be reflective problem solvers. Third, we owe to Dewey the belief that all children deserve to have a competent education.

3. E. L. Thorndike (1874–1949). Thorndike focused on assessment and measurement and promoted the scientific underpinnings of learning. Thorndike argued that one of schooling's most important tasks is to hone children's reasoning skills, and he excelled at doing exacting scientific studies of teaching and learning. Thorndike especially promoted the idea that educational psychology must have a scientific base and should focus strongly on measurement.

4. The Behavioral Approach. In American psychology, B. F. Skinner's (1938) view, which built on Thorndike's ideas, strongly influenced educational psychology in the middle of the century. Skinner's behavioral approach, which he defined as the science of observable behavior and its controlling conditions.

5. The Cognitive Revolution. Benjamin Bloom created a taxonomy of cognitive skills that included remembering, comprehending, synthesizing, and evaluating, which he suggested teachers should help students develop. The cognitive revolution in psychology began to take hold by the 1980s and ushered in a great deal of enthusiasm for applying the concepts of cognitive psychology—memory, thinking, reasoning, and so on—to helping students learn.

EFFECTIVE TEACHING

PROFESSIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS. Effective teachers' knowledge and skills are composed of instructional strategies supported by methods of goal setting, instructional planning, and classroom management. In addition, they understand how to motivate students and how to communicate and work effectively.

- a. Subject-Matter Competence. Knowledge of subject matter includes more than just facts, terms, and general concepts. It also includes knowledge about organizing ideas, connections among ideas, ways of thinking and arguing, patterns of change within a discipline, beliefs about a discipline, and the ability to carry ideas from one discipline to another.
- b. Instructional Strategies. two major approaches characterize how teachers teach:
  - i. constructivist approach. A learner-centered approach to learning that emphasizes the importance of individuals actively constructing knowledge and understanding with guidance from the teacher.
  - ii. direct instruction approach. A structured, teacher-centered approach characterized by teacher direction and control, high teacher expectations for
