A Law of Peoples for Recognizing States Chris Naticchia,2016-11-02 Which political entities should the international community recognize as member states granting them the rights and powers of statehood and entitling them to participate in formulating adjudicating and implementing international law What criteria should it use and are those criteria defensible From Kosovo Palestine and Taiwan to South Sudan Scotland South Ossetia Abkhazia and Catalonia these questions continuously arise and constantly challenge the international community for a consistent principled stance In response to this challenge Chris Naticchia offers a social contract argument for a theory of international recognition a normative theory of the criteria that states and international bodies should use to recognize political entities as member states of the international community Regardless of whether political entities adequately respect human rights or practice democracy he argues we must recognize a critical mass of them to get international institutions working Then we should recognize secessionist entities that suffer from persistent grave and widespread human rights abuses by their government and under certain conditions minority nations within multinational states that seek independence We must also recognize entities whose recognition would contribute to the economic development of the least well off entities Drawing on the social contract tradition and developing a broadly Rawlsian view A Law of Peoples for Recognizing States will both challenge and appeal to a broad readership in political philosophy international law and international relations Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States. Before the Resurrection Emily Provance,2025-03-31 How do Friends meetings and churches adapt to changing or shrinking communities A smaller or older meeting is no less valuable to God than a larger one but the more is better messaging of modern culture tells us otherwise This book weaves together logistical suggestions with eternal spiritual principles to help meetings right size their institutions Whether a group is altering its committee structures restructuring entirely selling a building or laying itself down the steps are essentially the same recognizing the need for change discerning the will of God at this time caring for one another and stepping forward into a new thing Friends are a resurrection people We know there will always be a renewal of life But resurrection is not the same as resuscitation How do we best make space for what God may do next
