Oroonoko Adapted By Biyi Bandele:

Oroonoko Susan B. Iwanisziw, 2017-11-30 With the aim of examining the postcolonial applications of Aphra Behn's re-entry into the literary canon the editor presents this edition as a collection representing the nexus of very specific articulations of literary cultural and political tropes produced by various writers and adapters from 1695 through 1999 The volume begins with a general introduction It then presents seven 18th century versions of the play and one poem ending with Biyi Bandele's late 20th century drama All texts are supplemented by original paratextual commentary if that is known and prefaced by a brief editorial commentary setting out pertinent biographical bibliographical theatrical and historical context not covered in the general introduction The tradition of stage adaptations of Oroonoko most of them keyed to Southerne's drama rather than to Behn's initial novella clearly shows the responsiveness of this series to studies of authorship gender genre and theatricality class race and especially the British response to the Atlantic slave trade and thus to the enduring relevance of these plays in modern literary and historical scholarship

Troping Oroonoko from Behn to Bandele Susan B. Iwanisziw, 2018-01-18 This volume of essays invites the reader to assess literary texts from within the frame of the texts cultural history which includes issues of authorship and literary or stage convention as well as the social and political institutions that shaped and marketed that literature The collection initiates just such an in depth and focused analysis of the complex literary and social history of the royal slave Oroonoko All eight essays address elements in the evolution of Oroonoko from Behn's 1688 novella to Southerne's 1696 dramatic adaptation and thence to the adaptations by Hawkesworth 1759 Gentleman 1760 Anonymous 1760 Ferriar 1788 Bellamy 1789 and Bandele 1999 who serially expropriated the play as a platform to debate responsibility in matters of slavery and colonialism Perhaps unique among literary creations Oroonoko and his entourage with their distinctive race class and gender attributes came into popular consciousness as tropes gauging important shifts in English values during the course of the transatlantic slave trade Accordingly this study aims to provide a specific exemplum of rigorous focused research on a single complex and controversial topic but also to complicate some of our received notions about Oroonoko slavery and abolition with a view to encouraging a more rigorous analysis of the cultural history underpinning literary texts

Genre and Ethics Edward Tomarken, 2002 The study addresses the following kinds of questions Why does genre need ethics Why does ethics need genre How is ethics related to and distinguished from ideology as currently used in cultural studies How does a generic ethical method come to terms with history and historical change How is a generic ethical method related to religion Does genre reinforce the concept of the ethical agent This book will therefore have a broad audience including scholars whose fields range from the Renaissance to the present theorists and philosophers whose interests include ethics cultural studies and ideologies and educationists pursuing methods for graduates and undergraduates The autobiographical introduction serves as the hook as our creative writers say for this audience Generically it is experimental being at once scholarly pedagogical and autobiographical

BOOK JACKET The British Slave

Trade and Public Memory Elizabeth Kowaleski Wallace, 2006-01-11 How does a contemporary society restore to its public memory a momentous event like its own participation in transatlantic slavery What are the stakes of once more restoring the slave trade to public memory What can be learned from this history Elizabeth Kowaleski Wallace explores these questions in her study of depictions and remembrances of British involvement in the slave trade Skillfully incorporating a range of material Wallace discusses and analyzes how museum exhibits novels television shows movies and a play created and produced in Britain from 1990 to 2000 grappled with the subject of slavery Topics discussed include a walking tour in the former slave trading port of Bristol novels by Caryl Phillips and Barry Unsworth a television adaptation of Jane Austen's Mansfield Park and a revival of Aphra Behn's Oroonoko for the Royal Shakespeare Company In each case Wallace reveals how these works and performances illuminate and obscure the history of the slave trade and its legacy While Wallace focuses on Britain her work also speaks to questions of how the United States and other nations remember inglorious chapters from their past

Approaches to Teaching Behn's Oroonoko Cynthia Richards, Mary Ann O'Donnell, 2013-01-01 Once merely a footnote in Restoration and eighteenth century studies and rarely taught Oroonoko or The Royal Slave 1688 by Aphra Behn is now essential reading for scholars and a classroom favorite It appears in general surveys and in courses on early modern British writers postcolonial literature American literature women's literature drama the slave narrative and autobiography Part 1 of this volume Materials provides not only resources for the teacher of Oroonoko but also a brief chronology of Behn's life and work In part 2 Approaches essays offer a diversity of perspectives appropriate to a text that challenges student assumptions and contains not one story but many Oroonoko as a romance as a travel account as a heroic tragedy as a window to seventeenth century representations of race as a reflection of Tory Whig conflict in the time of Charles II

Dido's Daughters Margaret W. Ferguson, 2007-11-01 Winner of the 2004 Book Award from the Society for the Study of Early Modern Women and the 2003 Roland H Bainton Prize for Literature from the Sixteenth Century Society and Conference Our common definition of literacy is the ability to read and write in one language But as Margaret Ferguson reveals in Dido's Daughters this description is inadequate because it fails to help us understand heated conflicts over literacy during the emergence of print culture The fifteenth through seventeenth centuries she shows were a contentious era of transition from Latin and other clerical modes of literacy toward more vernacular forms of speech and writing Ferguson's aim in this long awaited work is twofold to show that what counted as more valuable among these competing literacies had much to do with notions of gender and to demonstrate how debates about female literacy were critical to the emergence of imperial nations Looking at writers whom she dubs the figurative daughters of the mythological figure Dido builder of an empire that threatened to rival Rome Ferguson traces debates about literacy and empire in the works of Marguerite de Navarre Christine de Pizan Elizabeth Cary and Aphra Behn as well as male writers such as

Shakespeare Rabelais and Wyatt The result is a study that sheds new light on the crucial roles that gender and women played in the modernization of England and France
