Taken from the only home they have ever known Elizabeth and Conner MacBride are frightened and homesick When Elizabeth finds herself in trouble after a run in with the foundlings home s director Sister Mary Clare and bullied by one of the other children Mrs Kelly puts her job on the line to get Elizabeth and her brother on The Orphan Train and find them a new home in the wild western territories Orphan Trains ,1998 Orphan Trains Elizabeth Raum,2010-12 Describes the people and events involved in the orphan trains The reader s choices reveal the historical details from the perspectives of a New York City newsboy a child trying to keep his siblings together and a child sent west on the baby trains Provided by publisher Orphan Train Riders Mary Ellen Johnson,Kay B. Hall,Orphan Train Heritage Society of America,1992 From 1854 to 1929 about 150 000 orphans from New York City and the surrounding area were placed in homes in the Midwest and West The children were sent out on Orphan Trains Riders on the Orphan Train Alison Moore,2012-10-16 Riders on the Orphan Train is an historical novel about a little known piece of American history Between 1854 and 1929 over 250 000 orphans and surrendered children were placed out across the country They started their journey in New York and were given away in train stations across the country The novel is the story of the journey of two children from very different backgrounds who find themselves on the same train heading West in 1918 Ezra Duval age 11 was left in an orphanage Ezra s father a widower left his son behind for an opportunity to be a part of an archaeological expedition in Egypt Maud Farrell age 12 arrives in America from the west of Ireland to join her father a sand hog excavating the subway and discovers she must make her own way as a singing girl on the streets Both Ezra and Maud are scheduled to be sent out on a train to find new homes in the West by the Children s Aid Society Their brief friendship makes a life long impression on them both and though they are initially taken by people in different states Arkansas and Texas their experiences like separated twins run uncannily parallel This is a story of dislocation loss and the search for home that is at the heart of the American experience Beginning on the eve of America s entry into World War I and spanning the period of time until the Great Depression these children encounter and learn from people also looking for a way to belong in a rapidly changing world The novel s locations include New York City Arkansas the Big Bend region of Texas central New Mexico and southeastern Arizona The novel began with a short story that is at the heart of a multi media presentation called Riders on the Orphan Train that the author has been performing in libraries and museums since 1998 The program was originally developed for the Orphan Train Heritage Society of America Inc in Springdale Arkansas and now serves as the official touring outreach program for The National Orphan Train Complex Museum and Research Center in Concordia Kansas Author Statement I left the tenure track of a major creative writing program in 1998 to become an itinerant performer and have never regretted the decision Reaching the public initially with my short story about the Orphan Trains has been extremely rewarding finding a way to have my work serve a larger purpose has become a story my own imagination could not have created on its own The short story continued to grow until it became a novel I chose fiction as a means for exploring the emotional truths often left out of historical facts

For me the completion of this novel is the culmination of fourteen years of writing and research while touring and getting to know many Orphan Train Riders by participating in national reunions Their experiences are woven through the novel It is my hope that the stories of the children who road the trains will live on through this novel for generations to come Orphan Trains and Their Precious Cargo Herman Clarke,2012-02-10 By the mid 1800s the street corners of New York City were home to several thousand homeless abandoned and orphaned children These poor unfortunates were often the sons and daughters of newly arrived immigrants separated from their parents or relatives in the confusion and chaos of Ellis Island and forced by circumstance to fend for themselves Although some found refuge in orphanages and sanitariums these facilities were ill suited for the care of these children and lacked the resources to provide for more than a handful at a time Those that remained on the street often turned to theft and burglary or even prostitution as a means of survival compounding the city s already rampant crime problem Clearly a solution was needed for the good of both New York City and its orphan population Relief came with the establishment of the Children s Aid Society in 1853 by one Charles Loring Brace Brace was a theologian and a reformer whose answer to New York s orphan problem was a practice known simply as placing out The society would gather likely orphans and send them west by train in groups of anywhere from six to one hundred individuals stopping at predetermined destinations where it was known foster homes were available The American West was at this time in critical need of laborers in both agriculture and industry and many families were eager to provide foster homes to a child who was willing to work Children would be periodically checked on by an agent of the society and were required to write the society at least twice a year describing their experiences As with any foster care system placing out could be a hit or miss affair many children would bounce from home to home and some were returned to New York as undesirables There were many success stories however with orphans finding supportive homes and loving foster families Some were actually adopted into the families with which they were placed All faced the challenge of a new life in unfamiliar surroundings without the comfort of friends relatives and siblings left behind The orphan trains of the Children s Aid Society ran until 1929 and this text presents the story of one of its agents the Rev Mr Herman Clarke Rev Clarke entered the employ of the Society in 1900 and was a tireless devotee to the children entrusted to his care His ministry was in Dodge Center Minnisota and he was later placed in charge of Children s Homes in Cincinnati Ohio and Battle Creek Michigan Over the years he would travel thousands of miles on the rails with his orphan charges and received as many as two thousand letters a year from them In the twilight of life the reverend began to compile scrapbooks for his grandchildren detailing both the family s genealogy and his years spent working with the society Six out of these seven scrapbooks have been discovered by the author and they form the basis of this history Numerous photographs of orphans and their foster families as well as facsimiles of advertisements published by the society and a special section of orphan train poetry enrich this text Train to Somewhere Eve Bunting,2000-04-17 A young girl hopes to find her mother as she rides an Orphan Train to find a new life out west in this finely crafted heart and family history set during the nineteenth century at a time when America received an enormous influx of immigrants and a quarter of a million children were sent west from East Coast cities to America's heartland by orphan train. The story highlights a little known but historically significant moment in our country's past by tracing the individual journeys of two children, Johnny and Sophia, to bring about the distinction of these children to find families and homes. A true story of friendship and discovery, Last Train Home weaves individual riders' stories into a powerful tale of upheaval and resilience, of second chances and triumph over tribulation, building strength of mind and character into an incredible reserve.

Last Train Home Renée Wendinger, 2014-02-14 LAST TRAIN HOME is an American story about cultural identity
