Revisiting Empty Houses Una Flett, 1988 Baltimore Revisited P. Nicole King, Kate Drabinski, Joshua Clark Davis, 2019-08-09 Nicknamed both Mobtown and Charm City and located on the border of the North and South Baltimore is a city of contradictions From media depictions in The Wire to the real life trial of police officers for the murder of Freddie Gray Baltimore has become a quintessential example of a struggling American city Yet the truth about Baltimore is far more complicated and more fascinating To help untangle these apparent paradoxes the editors of Baltimore Revisited have assembled a collection of over thirty experts from inside and outside academia Together they reveal that Baltimore has been ground zero for a slew of neoliberal policies a place where inequality has increased as corporate interests have eagerly privatized public goods and services to maximize profits But they also uncover how community members resist and reveal a long tradition of Baltimoreans who have fought for social justice The essays in this collection take readers on a tour through the city's diverse neighborhoods from the Lumbee Indian community in East Baltimore to the crusade for environmental justice in South Baltimore Baltimore Revisited examines the city's past reflects upon the city's present and envisions the city's future

Jacques Prévert and a letter about the beauty of his mother that provides a clue to a decade long affair Funny touching and wry Mosaic shows how other people's lives however eccentric or extreme echo our own dreams and experiences The Idea of Human Rights Revisited David Álvarez, João Cardoso Rosas, 2022-08-18 This volume takes stock of the seminal contribution of Charles Beitz to the so called political turn in the philosophy of human rights whose origins are in the work of the late Rawls In his already classic book The Idea of Human Rights 2009 Beitz proposes that human rights are better understood from the vantage point of their practice in the contemporary world Instead of looking at these rights as legal and political instantiations of fully justified moral rights Beitz reconstructs the idea of human rights as being part of a global discursive practice that can only be understood in the framework of the international system of states in which we live In this system of interdependent states with the consequent dispersion of political authority human rights constitute an array of internal justifications and criticisms rather than a blueprint of the ideal society All the chapters in this volume draw on these fundamental ideas elaborated by Beitz and propose to extend them further in their connection with humanistic accounts of human rights with the plurality of contexts in which the practice of human rights takes place and finally with the interconnections between these rights and global justice or intergenerational justice The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy Chicago's Southeast Side Revisited Rod Sellers, 2001 One of the phrases that has been used to describe Chicago's Southeast Side is smokestacks and steeples The community initially developed because of the steel industry but it has been affected by the decline of the American steel industry in recent years Today the people of South Chicago South Deering the East Side and Hegewisch look to the future The community is in many respects at a crossroads Will economic redevelopment occur and if it does at what price Will the ecology and environment damaged by years of abuse and neglect be restored and protected This second book about the region tells the story of this interesting and vibrant Chicago community from a chronological approach It looks at important themes of American history from the perspective of this urban working class community Industrialization urbanization unionization immigration and Americanization were themes that played out on the Southeast Side of Chicago It examines how the community dealt with problems like depression wars pollution and the decline of heavy industry especially the steel industry Edisto Revisited Padgett Powell, 2013-09-10 DIV In the sequel to Powell's acclaimed debut Edisto Simons Manigault is older if not particularly wiser and searching for the cure to his restlessness in memory travel and forbidden love DIV DIV DIV Fourteen years after we first met Simons Manigault our protagonist is newly graduated from Clemson University bored unfocused and idling his summer away at his mother's home in Edisto South Carolina Not yet ready to fully embrace adulthood Simons finds himself surrendering to cynicism as well as to the temptations of his turned out well first cousin Patricia DIV DIV To avoid sinking further into his rut Simons embarks on a road trip through the South After a disastrous stint as a Corpus Christi fisherman he exits the Lone Star State doubling back to the Louisiana bayou to spend some quality time with his former friend and mentor and his mother's ex lover Taurus. But as even Taurus's once sought-after wisdom wears thin, Simons begins to suspect that the grass is not greener on the other side; it may be burnt brown and dead wherever he goes. div Padgett Powell's literary return to Edisto is as outrageous, witty, and bitingly sharp as its predecessor. Readers who adored their first meeting with Simons Manigault will relish a second helping of his ennui and bad behavior. Newcomers will likewise be heartily glad they made the trip.
