

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a woman's face. She is wearing a bright yellow headscarf or veil that covers her eyes and forehead. Only her dark skin, dark eyebrows, and dark lips are visible. She has a bindi on her forehead. The lighting is warm, and the yellow of the cloth is vibrant.

Seeing Anthropology W Cd:

Seeing Anthropology Karl G. Heider, 2004 Seeing Anthropology continues to be the only cultural anthropology text available that allows for easy integration of ethnographic films into the introductory cultural anthropology course. This text truly incorporates films within the text by blending textbook content with fourteen ethnographic film clips that are put in the hands of students. More flexible ordering options are available with the new edition. See New to this Edition section below. One reviewer says: "The greatest strengths of this text are its unique and skillful use of film clips to enhance student learning. I can think of no better way to extend student learning in anthropology than the use of films and there is no one more qualified to select and present anthropological films than the author of this book." Seeing Anthropology: Cult & CD W/ & Conform & Pk ANONIMO, 2005-05-01

Seeing by the Light Ike Miller, 2020-05-05 How can we understand God's revelation to us? Exploring both Augustine's and Karl Barth's readings of the Johannine literature, Ike Miller casts a broader vision of divine illumination, arguing for a fully Trinitarian view of illumination that forms not just our intellect but also appeals to the affections and encourages our ethical action. Emotions, Moral Formation, and Christian Politics Jonathan M. Cahill, 2024-08-22 This volume addresses the social relational nature of moral formation, emotions, and moral agency. Drawing on Barth's theological anthropology and his relational conception of the self, Cahill argues that Barth envisions moral progress as rooted in the growth of the community. Cahill also explores Barth's view of emotion in conversation with the study of emotions in psychology, sociology, neuroscience, and philosophy. Building on Barth and these other disciplines, Cahill argues for a relational and cognitive conception of emotions while highlighting emotions' critical role in regulating group and social relations. Emotions are fundamental to interpersonal interactions, to group relations, and for the reinforcement and disruption of social structures. This account of moral formation and emotion is illustrated through the example of climate change. A community shaped by love for God, solidarity with other creatures, and a concern for all of creation leads to an awareness of hegemonic forces and fosters emotions shaped by the kingdom of God that enables the struggle for climate justice. The Fabric(ation) of Consciousness Pieter F. Craffert, 2024-05-28 Consciousness is central to the quest for being human and for what the world is made of. While there is widespread agreement on the significance of consciousness for clarifying the human condition, there is no agreement on the phenomenon in search of theorising. Although there is no shortage of theories and concepts of consciousness in current consciousness research, the dominant critical analysis of consciousness research in this study, although based on existing analyses, is as far as I can see new and unique in arguing for a crisis in consciousness research. This book touches on most aspects of consciousness research: the hard problem of consciousness, neural correlates of consciousness, brain models, and consciousness, consciousness, and dualistic thinking, etc. but is a critical analysis of consciousness research. It is not an insider's but a third-person perspective on current consciousness research. In this regard, it differs from most introductions and overviews where these topics are presented from a first-person perspective the insiders claim about their research Representing the broad spectrum of consciousness research in terms of the theoretical framework of a neuro ecological perspective is a new and innovative move Teaching Religion and Film Gregory J Watkins,2008-08-22 In Teaching Religion and Film an interdisciplinary team of scholars thinks about the theoretical and pedagogical concerns involved with the intersection of film and religion in the classroom They examine the use of film to teach specific religious traditions religious theories and perspectives on fundamental human values Some instructors already teach some version of a film and religion course and many have integrated film as an ancillary to achieving central course goals This collection of essays helps them understand the field better and draws the sharp distinction between merely watching movies in the classroom and comprehending film in an informed and critical way

The Archaeology of Seeing Liliana Janik,2020-01-28 The Archaeology of Seeing provides readers with a new and provocative understanding of material culture through exploring visual narratives captured in cave and rock art sculpture paintings and more The engaging argument draws on current thinking in archaeology on how we can interpret the behaviour of people in the past through their use of material culture and how this affects our understanding of how we create and see art in the present Exploring themes of gender identity and story telling in visual material culture this book forces a radical reassessment of how the ability to see makes us and our ancestors human as such it will interest lovers of both art and archaeology Illustrated with examples from around the world from the earliest art from hundreds of thousands of years ago to the contemporary art scene including street art and advertising Janik cogently argues that the human capacity for art which we share with our most ancient ancestors and cousins is rooted in our common neurophysiology The ways in which our brains allow us to see is a common heritage that shapes the creative process what changes according to time and place are the cultural contexts in which art is produced and consumed The book argues for an innovative understanding of art through the interplay between the way the human brain works and the culturally specific creation and interpretation of meaning making an important contribution to the debate on art archaeology Wiley Blackwell Companion to Karl Barth George Hunsinger,Keith L.
