Seeing Hell:

Seeing Through the Veil Suzanne Conklin Akbari, 2004-01-01 During the later Middle Ages new optical theories were introduced that located the power of sight not in the seeing subject but in the passive object of vision This shift had a powerful impact not only on medieval science but also on theories of knowledge and this changing relationship of vision and knowledge was a crucial element in late medieval religious devotion In Seeing through the Veil Suzanne Conklin Akbari examines several late medieval allegories in the context of contemporary paradigm shifts in scientific and philosophical theories of vision After a survey on the genre of allegory and an overview of medieval optical theories Akbari delves into more detailed studies of several medieval literary works including the Roman de la Rose Dante's Vita Nuova Convivio and Commedia and Chaucer's dream visions and Canterbury Tales The final chapter Division and Darkness centres on the legacy of allegory in the fifteenth century Offering a new interdisciplinary synthetic approach to late medieval intellectual history and to major works within the medieval literary canon Seeing through the Veil will be an essential resource to the study of medieval literature and culture as well as philosophy history of art and history of science

Seeing Chekhov Michael C. Finke, 2005 Chekhov's keen powers of observation have been remarked by both memoirists who knew him well and scholars who approach him only through the written record and across the distance of many decades To apprehend Chekhov means seeing how Chekhov sees and the author's remarkable vision is understood as deriving from his occupational or professional training and identity But we have failed to register let alone understand just what a central concern for Chekhov himself and how deeply problematic were precisely issues of seeing and being seen from the Introduction Michael C Finke explodes a century of critical truisms concerning Chekhov's objective eye and what being a physician gave him as a writer in a book that foregrounds the deeply subjective and self reflexive aspects of his fiction and drama In exploring previously unrecognized seams between the author's life and his verbal art Finke profoundly alters and deepens our understanding of Chekhov's personality and behaviors provides startling new interpretations of a broad array of Chekhov's texts and fleshes out Chekhov's simultaneous pride in his identity as a physician and devastating critique of turn of the century medical practices and ideologies Seeing Chekhov is essential reading for students of Russian literature devotees of the short story and modern drama and anyone interested in the intersection of literature psychology and medicine

Immigration and Apocalypse Yii-Jan Lin, 2024-11-26 Tracing the metaphor of America as the Book of Revelation's New Jerusalem Yii Jan Lin shows how apocalyptic narratives have been used to exclude unwanted immigrants America appeared on the European horizon at a moment of apocalyptic expectation and ambition Explorers and colonizers imagined the land to be paradise the New Jerusalem of the Bible's Book of Revelation This groundbreaking volume explores the conceptualization of America as the New Jerusalem from the time of Columbus to the Puritan colonists through U S expansion and from the eras of Reagan to Trump While the metaphor of the New Jerusalem has been useful in portraying a shining God blessed refuge with open gates it has also been used to exclude attack and criminalize unwanted peoples Yii Jan Lin shows how newspapers political speeches sermons cartoons and novels throughout American history have used the language of Revelation to define immigrants as God s enemies who must be shut out of the gates This book exposes Revelation s apocalyptic logic at work in the history of Chinese exclusion the association of the unwanted with disease the contradictions of citizenship laws and the justification for building a U S Mexico wall like the wall around the New Jerusalem This book is a fascinating analysis of the religious biblical and apocalyptic in American immigration history and a damning narrative that weaves together American religious history immigration and ethnic studies and the use of biblical texts and imagery
