Seeing The Crab A Memoir Before Dying:

Seeing The Crab Christina Middlebrook, 1996 Middlebrook was not quite fifty when she was told that a lump in her breast was not only malignant but had already metastasized When Middlebrook's husband asked the surgeon for an honest prognosis she told him his wife had a 50 percent chance of surviving two more years Unlike the many upbeat books that end with the author triumphing over his or her illness through traditional or alternative medicine or by some variation of mind over matter this book offers no naive conclusion What it does give is a picture of family love including lessons in dealing with pain so real and unflinching that readers will cling to Middlebrook even as she takes them right to the edge of the abyss Seeing the Crab is filled with unforgettable vignettes of the author unable to activate the automatic faucets in an airport bathroom as if the machine already sees her as gone facing up to her daughter's refusal to get a driver's license so that her mother cannot leave her and coming to appreciate a friend's brutally honest words This is life's biggest transition Go for it

The Summer of Her Baldness Catherine Lord, 2010-07-05 No eyebrows No eyelashes When it rains the water will run straight down into my eyes Catherine Lord wrote before her hair fell out during chemotherapy Propelled into an involuntary performance piece occasioned by the diagnosis of breast cancer Lord adopted the online persona of Her Baldness an irascible witty polemical presence who speaks candidly about shame and fear to her listserv audience While Lord suffers from unwanted isolation and loss of control as her treatment progresses Her Baldness talks back to the society that stigmatizes bald women not to mention middle aged lesbians with a life threatening disease In this irreverent and moving memoir Lord draws on the e mail correspondence of Her Baldness to offer an unconventional look at life with breast cancer and the societal space occupied by the seriously ill She photographs herself and the rooms in which she negotiates her disease She details the clash of personalities in support groups her ambivalence about Western medicine her struggles to maintain her relationship with her partner and her bemusement when she is mistaken for a sir She uses these experiences common to the one in eight women who will be diagnosed at some point with breast cancer to illuminate larger issues of gender signifiers sexuality and the construction of community

Patient Listening Loreen Herwaldt, 2017-01-01 From the fictional portrayal of Dr Gregory House to Jerome Groopman's bestseller How Doctors Think both medical professionals and the general public recognize that there is more to the doctor's job than technical practice Yet why do so many patients come away from their doctors offices feeling dissatisfied with their interactions In this welcome addition to the growing field of narrative medicine physician Loreen Herwaldt uses the illness narratives of two dozen writer patients to teach listening skills to medical students residents physicians and other health care providers Herwaldt skillfully pares each narrative down to its most basic elements rendering them into powerful found poems that she has used successfully in her role as a teacher and in her own practice Drawing from narratives by writers who are both emerging and well known including Oliver Sacks Richard Selzer and Mary Swander each poem reveals the experience of illness and treatment from the patient's perspective Patient

Listening includes a detailed general introduction and a how to guide that will prove invaluable in the classroom and in clinical practice This book will inspire thoughtfulness in everyone who reads it It is also designed to foster discussions about all aspects of the patient experience from ethics to stigmatization to health insurance Patient Listening is not just about bedside manner but also about how health care providers can gain the most from their interactions with patients and in turn offer more appropriate treatments develop more cooperative and responsive relationships with their patients and thus become better doctors Beyond Words Kathlyn Conway,2013-05-15 Originally published as Illness and the limits of expression Ann Arbor University of Michigan Press c2007 The Breast Cancer Wars Barron H. Lerner,2003 Chronicles the various campaigns waged against breast cancer and its effects on women during the last century Mammographies Mary K. DeShazer,2018-05-09 Uncovers the lived experience of breast cancer through autobiographical and photographic narratives Encyclopedia of Disability Gary L Albrecht,2006 Presents current knowledge of and experience with disability across a wide variety of places conditions and cultures to both the general reader and the specialist The Invading Body Einat Avrahami,2007 Widely debated in feminist poststructuralist and literary theory is the relationship between subjectivity and the body Yet autobiographical criticism an obvious place for testing this conceptual relationship has lagged behind contemporary queries about the embodied self In The Invading Body Einat Avrahami corrects this deficiency by analyzing the genre of terminal illness autobiographies These personal narratives challenge the world of self writing in their power to question the assumption that autobiography and the body are products of cultural constructs and discursive practices Their self disclosures of symptoms disabilities and the physical and psychological pains of treatment especially when combined with thoughts of further deterioration and imminent death defy the theoretical formulations of identity and alter the definition of autobiography itself Avrahami investigates an array of autobiographical testimonies of terminal illness ranging from Harold Brodkey s poignant account of his struggle with AIDS to Hannah Wilke s and Jo Spence s gripping self portraits of cancer By challenging the artificial and contrived skepticism that critics and theorists bring to their concepts of the self the author argues these illness narratives constitute an invasion of the real confronting the notions of self representation and self invention on which current autobiographical studies are based The author s examinations of these moving memoirs and photographs will engage not only the growing field of disability studies but also a more general readership interested in the transition that occurs when one s body suddenly falls out of step with one s mind Narrative Research in Health and Illness Brian Hurwitz,Trisha Greenhalgh,Vieda Skultans,2008-04-15 This comprehensive book celebrates the coming of age of narrative in health care It uses narrative to go beyond the patient s story and address social cultural ethical psychological organizational and linguistic issues This book has been written to help health professionals and social scientists to use narrative more effectively in their everyday work and writing The book is split into three comprehensive sections Narratives Counter narratives and Meta narratives The Body of Nature and Culture R. Giblett,2008-10-14 This book explores the relationship of human bodies with natural and cultural environments arguing that these categories are linked and intertwined It argues for an environmentally sustainable and healthy relationship between the body and the earth
