Seeking The Center Place Archaeology And Ancient Communities In The Mesa Verde Region:

Seeking The Center Place Mark Varien, Richard H. Wilshusen, 2002 A detailed view of the last Pueblo communities in the Mesa Verde region this volume draws from a common database derived from extensive investigations at several sites

The Oxford Handbook of North American Archaeology Timothy R. Pauketat, 2012 The Oxford Handbook of North American Archaeology reviews the continent's first and last foragers farmers and great pre-Columbian civic and ceremonial centers from Chaco Canyon to Moundville and beyond Archaeology of the Southwest Maxine E. McBrinn, Linda S. Cordell, 2016-06-16 The long-awaited third edition of this well-known textbook continues to be the go-to text and reference for anyone interested in Southwest archaeology. It provides a comprehensive summary of the major themes and topics central to modern interpretation and practice. More concise, accessible, and student-friendly, the Third Edition offers students the latest in current research, debates, and topical syntheses, as well as increased coverage of Paleoindian and Archaic periods and the Casas Grandes phenomenon. It remains the perfect text for courses on Southwest archaeology at the advanced undergraduate and graduate levels and is an ideal resource book for the Southwest researchers' bookshelf and for interested general readers.

The Social Construction of Communities Mark D. Varien, James M. Potter, 2008-08-15 The Social Construction of Communities draws on archaeological research in the Southwest to examine how communities are created through social interaction. The archaeological record of the Southwest is important for its precise dating, exceptional preservation, large number of sites, and length of occupation, making it the most intensively researched archaeological region in the world. Taking advantage of that rich archaeological record, the contributors to this volume present case studies of the Mesa Verde, Rio Grande, Kayenta, Mogollon, and Hohokam regions. The result is an enhanced understanding of the ancient Southwest, a new appreciation for the ways in which humans construct communities and transform society, and an expanded theoretical discussion of the foundational concepts of modern social theory.

Ancient Households of the Americas John G. Douglass, Nancy Gonlin, 2012-04-15 In Ancient Households of the Americas, archaeologists investigate the fundamental role of household production in ancient colonial and contemporary households. Several different cultures—Iroquois, Coosa, Anasazi, Hohokam, San Agustín, Wankarani, Formative Gulf Coast Mexico, and Formative Classic Colonial and contemporary Maya—are analyzed through the lens of household archaeology in concrete data-driven case studies. The text is divided into three sections. Section I examines the spatial and social organization and context of household production. Section II looks at the role and results of households as primary producers, and Section III investigates the role of and interplay among households in their greater political and socioeconomic communities. In the past few decades, household archaeology has made substantial contributions to our understanding and explanation of the past through the documentation of the household as a social unit, whether small or large, rural or urban, commoner or elite. These case studies from a broad swath of the Americas make Ancient Households of the Americas extremely valuable for continuing the comparative interdisciplinary study of households

The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict Christopher Knüsel, Martin Smith, 2013-12-17 If human burials were our only window onto the past what story would they tell Skeletal injuries constitute the most direct and unambiguous evidence for violence in the past Whereas weapons or defenses may simply be statements of prestige or status and written sources are characteristically biased and incomplete human remains offer clear and unequivocal evidence of physical aggression reaching as far back as we have burials to examine Warfare is often described as senseless and as having no place in society Consequently its place in social relations and societal change remains obscure The studies in The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict present an overview of the nature and development of human conflict from prehistory to recent times as evidenced by the remains of past people themselves in order to explore the social contexts in which such injuries were inflicted A broadly chronological approach is taken from prehistory through to recent conflicts however this book is not simply a catalogue of injuries illustrating weapon development or a narrative detailing progress in warfare but rather provides a framework in which to explore both continuity and change based on a range of important themes which hold continuing relevance throughout human development

The Poetics of Processing Anna J. Osterholtz, 2020-12-01 In 2002 Neil Whitehead published Dark Shamans Kanaim and the Poetics of Violent Death in which he applied the concept of poetics to the study of violence and observed the power of violence in the creation and expression of identity and social relationships The Poetics of Processing applies Whitehead's theory on violence to mortuary and skeletal assemblages in the Andes Mexico the US Southwest Jordan Ethiopia Egypt and Turkey examining the complex cultural meanings of the manipulation of remains after death The contributors interpret postmortem treatment of the physical body through a poetics lens examining body processing as a mechanism for the re creation of cosmological events and processing's role in the creation of social memory They analyze methods of processing and the ways in which the living use the physical body to stratify society and gain power as evidenced in rituals of body preparation and burial around the world objects buried with the dead and the hierarchies of tomb occupancy the dissection of cadavers by medical students the appropriation of living spaces once occupied by the dead and the varying treatments of the remains of social outsiders prisoners of war and executed persons The Poetics of Processing combines social theory and bioarchaeology to examine how the living manipulate the bodies of the dead for social purposes These case studies ranging from prehistoric to historic and modern and from around the globe explore this complex material relationship that does not cease with physical death This volume will be of interest to mortuary archaeologists bioarchaeologists and cultural anthropologists Contributors Dil Singh Basanti Roselyn Campbell Carlina de la Cova Eric Haanstad Scott Haddow Christina Hodge Christopher Knusel Kristin Kuckelman Clark Spencer Larsen Debra Martin Kenneth Nystrom Adrienne Offenbecker Megan Perry Marin Pilloud Beth K Scaffidi Mehmet Somel Kyle D Waller

Thinking through Archaeological Complexity Stefani A. Crabtree, 2025-10-31 Thinking Through Archaeological Complexity explores how archaeologists can engage with complex adaptive systems examining dynamic interactions between humans and environments across space and through time It offers a roadmap for integrating theory method and data through a complexity science lens This volume bridges archaeology and complexity science offering a transdisciplinary framework for understanding long term socio ecological dynamics It provides a substantive overview of how complex adaptive systems science is used in archaeology Drawing from case studies in the Ancestral Pueblo Southwest it demonstrates how tools like agent based modeling ecological and social network analysis and settlement scaling reveal emergent patterns in the archaeological record The book critically examines concepts such as resilience adaptation innovation and transformation offering alternatives to overly linear narratives Emphasizing methodological transparency it provides practical guidance for scholars interested in modeling data integration and working across disciplinary boundaries while grounding in theoretical pluralism By situating archaeological knowledge within broader scientific conversations the book encourages readers to reimagine the past not as static or collapsed but as complex entangled and instructive for contemporary challenges This book is essential reading for students researchers and practitioners in archaeology as well as complexity science It will also appeal to scholars in anthropology environmental studies geography and network science interested in long term human environmental dynamics and the application of complex systems approaches in historical contexts

Becoming Villagers Matthew S. Bandy, Jake R. Fox, 2010-12-15 The shift from mobile hunting and gathering to more sedentary usually agricultural lifeways was one of the most significant milestones in the prehistory of humanity This transformation was spurred by an alignment of social and ecological forces pressures and adaptations and it took place in broadly comparable ways in many prehistoric settings Based on a Society for American Archaeology symposium and subsequent Amerind Advanced Seminar in 2006 Becoming Villagers examines this transformation at various places and times across the globe by focusing not on the origins of agriculture and village life but rather on their consequences The goal of the volume is to identify regularities in the ways that societies developed in the centuries and millennia following a transition to village life Using cases that range from China to Bolivia and from the Near East to the American Southwest leading archaeologists situate their specific areas of specialization in a broad comparative context They consider the forces acting to divide and fragment early villages and the social technologies and practices by which those obstacles were in some cases overcome Finally the volume examines the long term historical trajectories of these early village societies This transformative collection makes a powerful case for a renewed and invigorated archaeological focus on large scale comparative studies It will be an essential read for anyone interested not only in early village societies but also in the ways in which archaeology relates to anthropology other social sciences and history
